World Leaders At Kennedy Funeral

Suspected Assassin Shot Dead By Jail Bystander

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Lee Harvey Oswald may have left behind in death a blueprint for the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Oswald was slain Sunday by Jack Ruby, 52, a night club owner and self-appointed executioner, who undertook swift, savage reprisal for the Kennedy murder.

Hours later, the Dallas Morning News, in a copyrighted story, said police officers who searched Oswald's room found a map with a line on it marking the path of the bullet that killed the President during a motorcade Friday. Neither the FBI nor the Secret Service would comment on the news report.

Spots Marked

The newspaper quoted what it termed a reliable source as saying:

"This was a map of the City of Dallas. Oswald had placed marks at major intersections along the motorcade route — three or four as I recall. There was also a line from the Texas School Book Depository Building to Elm Street. This was the trajectory of the bullets which struck the President and Gov. (John) Connally."

The map may have constituted what police termed "major evidence" against Oswald in Kennedy's assassination, but which they had refused to reveal.

The News said officers theorized Oswald marked spots on the map from which a sniper could get a good shot at the Kennnedy motorcade.

Meanwhile, from Mexico City came another report—this time that Oswald visited the Soviet and Cuban consuls in September and tried to get a visa.

The newspaper Excelsior attributed its report to a high official source which it did not name.

Shot At Close Range

Oswald died Sunday with a single bullet wound in the side, fired by Ruby as he stepped from a crowd of 200 in the basement of the Dallas City Hall.

"It's too good for him!" someone shouted after the 24-year-old self-styled Communist dropped in his tracks, a single cry of anguish escaping his lips. Police quickly overwhelmed and disarmed Ruby.

It was an incredible climax to the wildest weekend in Dallas history—a savage, sudden moment of raw drama that was caught by national television networks and broadcast with shocking impact into American living rooms.

"He took Kennedy's death much harder than that of our 88-year-old father five years ago," said Ruby's older sister, Eva Grant. "He couldn't eat Friday. He kept talking about Jackie and the Kennedy kids."

Oswald had been formally accused of the sniper assassination of Kennedy last Friday as the President rode beaming beside his wife, Jacqueline Kennedy, in a triumphal motorcade through downtown Dallas.

Governor Recovering

Also wounded in the shooting was Texas Gov. John Connally, who is recovering. Later, authorities said, Oswald shot to death a Dallas policeman, J. D. Tippit, who—wittingly or otherwise — interrupted his getaway flight.

The first reaction of Dallas police to Oswald's murder was to mark the assassination case closed, and concentrate on trying to convict Ruby.

But federal officials felt otherwise. President Johnson ordered a full government probe of Oswald's slaying, and the FBI proposed further investigation into the presidential assassination with the hope of eventually giving the American people the full story. Later, Dallas Dist. Atty. Henry Wade listed what he said was a complete summary of the evidence against Oswald.

A wild tumult broke out immediately after the shooting of Oswald in the basement of City Hall. But it was nothing com-

Dallas Officers Report Airtight Case On Oswald

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — "This is it—I've sent men to the electric chair on less evidence than we have against Lee Harvey Oswald."

Dist. Atty. Henry Wade made the claim as he revealed the evidence which convinced Dallas officers they had an airtight case against the accused assassin of President John F. Kennedy.

"There is no doubt in my mind that Oswald was the killer," Wade said.

Nine hours before Wade spoke to newsmen Sunday night, Oswald, 24, was fatally shot by Jack Ruby, owner of a Dallas lounge. The shooting occurred in the police headquarters basement in front of hundreds of police, Secret Service, FBI men and newsmen, as Oswald was being escorted to an armored car for transportation to new jail quarters.

Two Grim Facts

Not long after Wade finished describing what he said was all the evidence against Oswald, the Dallas Morning News said in a copyrighted story that officers had found a map in Oswald's room which marked the path of the bullets which killed Kennedy and wounded Texas Gov. John Connally Friday afternoon. Wade had made no mention of this.

The newspaper said the map outlined Kennedy's motorcade route, and a line was drawn from the Texas School Book Depository building to Elm Street, where the President and Connally were shot.

Police officers available said they knew nothing of any map. In Washington, the Secret Service and FBI had no comment.

Wade said two facts stood high in the mass of evidence linking the slim, brown-haired Oswald to the slaying.

First, a palm print on the underside of the rifle which fired the bullets that killed Kennedy was identified as Oswald's.

Secondly, Wade said, Oswald had definitely been placed inside the building at the time shots were fired from there at Kennedy.

"The gun was here, his prints were on the gun, the gun was the gun that killed Kennedy, his palm prints were on the box on which the killer sat, and witnesses put him on the sixth floor at the time of the shooting."

Rifle Purchase Traced

Asked if he believed Oswald was slain to keep him from talking, Wade said police were looking into that angle, but so far no connection has been established between Oswald and Ruby.

"There is no concrete evidence to go on that there is anyone else connected with the assassination," Wade said, but added that some aspects of the case may still be investigated.

The district attorney said that because Ruby's slaying of Oswald was an assassination "I am certain that I can get the death penalty for Ruby. Ruby walked up to a man who was handcuffed and defenseless and cold - bloodedly assassinated him."

Wade added several specific details to evidence previously brought out.

He said Oswald bought the Italian-make assassination rifle in March from a Chicago mail order firm, at a cost of slightly more than $12. The FBI, he said, confirmed the serial number of the mail order rifle matched that of the rifle that fired the shots at Kennedy.

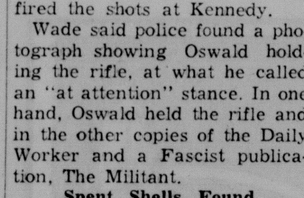

Wade said police found a photograph showing Oswald holding the rifle, at what he called an "at attention" stance. In one hand, Oswald held the rifle and in the other copies of the Daily Worker and a Fascist publication, The Militant.

Spent Shells Found

There was no evidence that showed Oswald was a member of the Communist party, Wade said, "However, there was lots of material dealing with communism, such as the Daily Worker, and there was even more material dealing with the Fair Play for Cuba organization."

Officers said earlier Oswald told them he was a Communist, and was proud of it.

Wade also said three ejected shells, of an odd calibre that came from the assassination rifle found on the floor, were located near the box at the ambush window where a palm print of Oswald's was impressed.

Rest Home Fire Takes 63 Lives

NORWALK, Ohio (AP) — The bodies of five of the 63 elderly patients who perished in a fire at the Golden Age Nursing Home near Fitchville, 15 miles southeast of here, remained unidentified today as experts continued an investigation to determine the cause of the blaze.

Making his second visit to the scene of the pre-dawn fire Saturday that destroyed the one-story concrete block building, Gov. James A. Rhodes talked with local officials yesterday and pledged "an all-out, intensive investigation" by the State Fire Marshal's Office and the Ohio Highway Patrol.

Twenty-one patients and the three nurses on duty when the fire broke out were rescued in the nation's worst fire tragedy since 95 persons lost their lives in a Chicago fire in 1958.

Mrs. Ruth Shepherd, manager of the home, spent an hour at the temporary morgue in the Fitchville elementary school yesterday assisting in identifying bodies.

The five bodies still unidentified were given names and numbers by Huron County Coroner Dr. William Holman on the basis of information supplied by Mrs. Shepherd.

Head Of Kennedy Family Remains At Hyannis Port

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP) —Former Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy grieved in the privacy of his summer home today as the rest of the nation paid final homage to his slain son.

Although pronounced fit to travel, the 75-year-old Kennedy elected to remain. His niece, Ann Gargan, and the Rev. John Cavanaugh, long - time friend and president emeritus of the University of Notre Dame, were with him.

Dr. Russell S. Boles, Boston neurologist, said the former ambassador displayed "tremendous courage" upon learning Saturday of his son's assassination. The family waited 21 hours after John F. Kennedy died before telling his father.

Mother And Girl Kidnaped And Assaulted

BALDWIN (AP) — State Police said a 32-year-old Coloma area woman and her 12-year-old daughter were kidnaped at gunpoint along a lonely country and raped northeast of Baldwin in Lake County Sunday.

Officers said three men dressed in red hunting garb fired two shots at the woman's car, puncturing a tire and forcing it to halt. The woman apparently had taken her four children for a Sunday drive, police said.

The men blindfolded the women and her oldest daughter and forced them into a 1963 blue Ford hardtop or convertable, drove a short distance away, and assaulted them, police said. The woman suffered a head cut from a blow on the head.

Police did not release the names of the victims. A passerby found the other three children, the oldest 10, standing alongside their abandoned family car. The woman and her daughter were found a short time later where their assailants had ditched them.

Police said the three men were intoxicated. Road blocks were set up in the area, and local hunting camps were checked out.

Police said the woman and her husband owned a cabin near Baldwin, and had gone there on a hunting trip. It was not immediately determined where her husband was at the time.

Widow Returns, Kisses Casket, Walks In Night

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. John F. Kennedy went back for a second look at her husband's casket in the Capitol rotunda and pleading, "Let me walk, let me walk," mingled with crowds that mourned the slain President.

The 34-year-old widow of President Kennedy seemed reluctant to leave his casket.

With her two children, she had come in a funeral procession Sunday to leave the President's body to lie in state in the Capitol for public viewing by many thousands.

Mrs. Kennedy, with her daughter Caroline beside her, had knelt and kissed the casket before she departed about 2:30 p.m.

Back At 9 P.M.

Unexpectedly, she was back about 9 o'clock Sunday night, on the arm of her brother-in-law, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, as long lines of people waited to pass the President's bier.

She walked slowly by the ropes keeping the public from the casket area and once again knelt and kissed the coffin.

Until she had left it at the Capitol, Mrs. Kennedy had remained near her husband's body since he was slain in Dallas Friday afternoon.

On her sudden nighttime reappearance, the slow - moving crowd came to a halt. When Mrs. Kennedy rose, she turned her tear-stained face and looked for a long moment at the faces of those who came to pay their respects to her late husband.

As she and the attorney general left, Mrs. Kennedy seemed to look searchingly at the faces of the incoming throng.

Decided Details

"Let me walk, let me walk," she said as they descended the Capitol steps. At first Mrs. Kennedy went unrecognized, but soon she was discovered and some followed after her party of police and Secret Service agents.

It was learned Mrs. Kennedy personally had decided on many of the details of the presidential funeral, including the decision that the mourners would walk some eight blocks from the White House as was done at the funeral of Abraham Lincoln, the president slain almost 100 years ago.

Protocol and research experts had brought to the White House plans of the funerals of George

Young President Buried On Open Arlington Hill

WASHINGTON (AP) — A grieving capital—and the world —said goodby today to John F. Kennedy, dynamic in life and revered in his martyr's death.

The broad streets were lined by hundreds of thousands of people, many of them weeping, as the flag-draped coffin drawn by six white horses went by.

After it came the young widow, Jacqueline, a black veil shielding her face and draping her shoulders. For the first stage of the slow, sad journey she rode in a black limousine.

At the Capitol, 240,000 persons filed past the bier before the funeral procession.

The great copper dome of St. Matthew's Cathedral, blue-green from decades of weathering, glistened in a crisp, clear day as the cortege approached it for the requiem Mass.

As the procession came by the White House on the way to the cathedral the Marine band played a dirge. Earlier, the strains of "Onward Christian Soldiers" had filled the air.

Widow, Statesmen

Along with the 34-year-old widow of the fallen chief executive, and sorrowing with her, went one of the greatest arrays of world statesmen ever assembled. From 53 countries they came—26 as heads of state or government.

Richard Cardinal Cushing of Boston, an old friend of the Kennedy family, came to celebrate the Mass at the church named for St. Matthew the evangelist and apostle.

The white horses pulling the caisson carrying the coffin plodded along quietly, but the traditional riderless horse turned, twisted and pranced sideways.

Before the casket was placed on the caisson at the Capitol, Mrs. Kennedy had knelt before it and prayed briefly.

Then, as the coffin was carried from the catafalque, there was a roll of ruffles and flourishes.

Widow Leads

"O God of Loveliness," a band played, and the procession began, to the measured cadences of muffled drums and a mournful dirge.

A bell tolled as the cortege approached the White House. It reached there at 11:35 a.m., while church bells tolled mournfully.

Then at the White House, Jacqueline Kennedy set out on foot, leading the procession to the cathedral.

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy clutched Mrs. Kennedy's hand as they walked out the northwest gate of the White House.

President and Mrs. Johnson walked behind a line of members of the immediate family who followed Mrs. Kennedy.

French President Charles de Gaulle was close behind, leading the foreign leaders.

Congress Group

Chief Justice Earl Warren, former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and others also were in the walking procession.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen headed a group from Congress.

The youthful President, who sought peace in an age of hot and cold wars, finds his own peace beside the nation's heroes in Arlington National Cemetery—in a grave overlooking the memorial of another martyred president, Abraham Lincoln.

But with the prayers for the dead there were hopes for the new President, Lyndon B. Johnson, who briefly lays aside the awesome problems he inherited to lead 26 presidents, prime ministers and kings in paying respect to the assassinated Kennedy.

Prince Phillip Attends

Not since the burial of the Unknown Soldier 40 years ago has there been such a gathering in Washington.

And many, if not all, of the 100 or so dignitaries—including French President Charles de Gaulle, Prince Phillip and Prime Minister Alec Douglas-Home of Britain, Chancellor Ludwig Erhard of West Germany—are to join the grieving Mrs. Kennedy in a sombre procession that will walk behind the horse-drawn caisson bearing Kennedy's body to St. Matthew's Roman Catholic Cathedral.

The low pontifical mass is to be celebrated by Richard Cardinal Cushing, archbishop of Boston and an old friend of the Kennedy family.

Because of the space limitations, only those with invitations will be allowed up the 13 steps and into the dark-red brick church.

But in a moving display of sorrow and affection, Americans mighty and humble paid their respects to their slain leader by the hundreds of thousands.

Symbol of Warrior

They choked the sidewalks along Pennsylvania Avenue and flooded the capitol grounds Sunday as the late President's body was carried past them on a caisson drawn by six horses. Then came the dark riderless horse, with army cavalry boots reversed in the stirrups, the traditional symbol of a slain warrior.

And after the procession passed, the crowd of spectators broke through the police lines and by the thousands marched silently up the broad avenue to the white capitol crowning Capitol Hill.

All night and into the morning a double line three and four abreast passed the bier with its guard of honor under the rotunda.

Still at 4:30 a.m. the line stretched some five miles and police estimated 85,000 persons were still waiting, bundled against the 35 degree chill.

Some cried. Some carried children in arms to let them have a brush with history.

But even as the crowds waited along Pennsylvania Avenue for the start of the procession Sunday a new shock whispered through the throngs:

Case Not Closed

Lee Harvey Oswald, the 24-year-old Marxist and ex-Marine charged with killing Kennedy, was himself gunned down and

The broad streets were lined by hundreds of thousands of people, many of them weeping, as the flag-draped coffin drawn by six white horses went by.

After it came the young widow, Jacqueline, a black veil shielding her face and draping her shoulders. For the first stage of the slow, sad journey she rode in a black limousine.

At the Capitol, 240,000 persons filed past the bier before the funeral procession.

The great copper dome of St. Matthew's Cathedral, blue-green from decades of weathering, glistened in a crisp, clear day as the cortege approached it for the requiem Mass.

As the procession came by the White House on the way to the cathedral the Marine band played a dirge. Earlier, the strains of "Onward Christian Soldiers" had filled the air.

Widow, Statesmen

Along with the 34-year-old widow of the fallen chief executive, and sorrowing with her, went one of the greatest arrays of world statesmen ever assembled. From 53 countries they came—26 as heads of state or government.

Richard Cardinal Cushing of Boston, an old friend of the Kennedy family, came to celebrate the Mass at the church named for St. Matthew the evangelist and apostle.

The white horses pulling the caisson carrying the coffin plodded along quietly, but the traditional riderless horse turned, twisted and pranced sideways.

Before the casket was placed on the caisson at the Capitol, Mrs. Kennedy had knelt before it and prayed briefly.

Then, as the coffin was carried from the catafalque, there was a roll of ruffles and flourishes.

Widow Leads

"O God of Loveliness," a band played, and the procession began, to the measured cadences of muffled drums and a mournful dirge.

A bell tolled as the cortege approached the White House. It reached there at 11:35 a.m., while church bells tolled mournfully.

Then at the White House, Jacqueline Kennedy set out on foot, leading the procession to the cathedral.

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy clutched Mrs. Kennedy's hand as they walked out the northwest gate of the White House.

President and Mrs. Johnson walked behind a line of members of the immediate family who followed Mrs. Kennedy.

French President Charles de Gaulle was close behind, leading the foreign leaders.

Congress Group

Chief Justice Earl Warren, former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and others also were in the walking procession.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen headed a group from Congress.

The youthful President, who sought peace in an age of hot and cold wars, finds his own peace beside the nation's heroes in Arlington National Cemetery—in a grave overlooking the memorial of another martyred president, Abraham Lincoln.

But with the prayers for the dead there were hopes for the new President, Lyndon B. Johnson, who briefly lays aside the awesome problems he inherited to lead 26 presidents, prime ministers and kings in paying respect to the assassinated Kennedy.

Prince Phillip Attends

Not since the burial of the Unknown Soldier 40 years ago has there been such a gathering in Washington.

And many, if not all, of the 100 or so dignitaries—including French President Charles de Gaulle, Prince Phillip and Prime Minister Alec Douglas-Home of Britain, Chancellor Ludwig Erhard of West Germany—are to join the grieving Mrs. Kennedy in a sombre procession that will walk behind the horse-drawn caisson bearing Kennedy's body to St. Matthew's Roman Catholic Cathedral.

The low pontifical mass is to be celebrated by Richard Cardinal Cushing, archbishop of Boston and an old friend of the Kennedy family.

Because of the space limitations, only those with invitations will be allowed up the 13 steps and into the dark-red brick church.

But in a moving display of sorrow and affection, Americans mighty and humble paid their respects to their slain leader by the hundreds of thousands.

Symbol of Warrior

They choked the sidewalks along Pennsylvania Avenue and flooded the capitol grounds Sunday as the late President's body was carried past them on a caisson drawn by six horses. Then came the dark riderless horse, with army cavalry boots reversed in the stirrups, the traditional symbol of a slain warrior.

And after the procession passed, the crowd of spectators broke through the police lines and by the thousands marched silently up the broad avenue to the white capitol crowning Capitol Hill.

All night and into the morning a double line three and four abreast passed the bier with its guard of honor under the rotunda.

Still at 4:30 a.m. the line stretched some five miles and police estimated 85,000 persons were still waiting, bundled against the 35 degree chill.

Some cried. Some carried children in arms to let them have a brush with history.

But even as the crowds waited along Pennsylvania Avenue for the start of the procession Sunday a new shock whispered through the throngs:

Case Not Closed

Nation Observes Day Of Mourning

WASHINGTON (AP) — The mournful beat of muffled drums. The slow clip clop of the horse caisson moving down Pennsylvania Avenue. Caroline and John pressing their faces against the back window of the slow rolling limousine. The silent staring masses shuffling past the flag-draped coffin in the great rotunda of the Capitol.

Tragic and unforgettable, these images of grief shimmmer in the air today as the nation observes a day of solemn mourning to mark the funeral of its assassinated leader, John F. Kennedy.

Down an avenue of stifled sobs and open tears, he had passed Sunday on his final journey from the White House to the Capitol, recracing in reverse the route he traveled on the occasion of his triumphant inaugural less than three years before.

Streets Packed

A crowd of 300,000, packed tight to the building line along the famous street, doffed their caps and bowed their heads as the black draped caisson, pulled by six white horses and led by a seventh, rolled in stately procession along the mile-long route.

Just behind pranced the riderless horse, symbol of the slain warrior, with its pair of empty cavalry boots reversed in the stirrups and a saber in a silver scabbard swinging from its saddle. Led by a military man, the dark bay horse was Mrs. Kennedy's Sardar.

Next came a single sailor carrying the personal flag of the President, then Mrs. Kennedy and the children riding in a limousine with President and Mrs. Johnson and Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy. At one point in the procession, Robert Kennedy lifted John, whose third birthday is today, onto his knee. Mrs. Kennedy clutched Caroline's hand.

All Through the Night

Ahead of the caisson bearing the casket marched an honor guard composed of the joint chiefs of staff and the commandants of the Marine Corps and Coast Guard, clergymen of the three major faiths, and a company of Navy enlisted men, who marched in memory of the young Navy lieutenant and war hero who became their commander in chief.

John F. Kennedy's final ascent up the broad Capitol steps he had once climbed as a young congressman and senator and then as the youngest man ever elected president were marked by the distant booming of a 21-gun salute and the slow strains of a service band playing "Hail to the Chief."

Erect and staring straight ahead, Mrs. Kennedy followed the casket up the steps, leading the children by the hand.

As Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, Chief Justice Earl Warren and House Speaker John McCormack intoned the eulogies over the public address system, the crowd began forming itself into a long line, waiting its turn to move into the rotunda and file past the flag-draped coffin.

It was the same spontaneity of affection that had caused thousands to break through the police barriers and join in line behind the funeral cortege as it moved down Pennsylvania Avenue. Nothing like it had ever happened before at a presidential funeral.

No One Speaks

All through the night people came to the Capitol. With slow steps and solemn faces they filed past the bier.

Some crossed themselves as they walked by, some dabbed at their eyes with sodden handkerchiefs, most stared with long unwavering gazes, their faces soft, their eyes sad.

No one spoke.

But not anything, not the legweary weight nor the numbing cold produced a word of complaint from the endless line of people.

Would they have come, dozens were asked, if they had known how long it would take. Of course, they replied. "He was our President."

Many Do Not Reach Rotunda

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thousands upon thousands of persons braved long hours in freezing weather to file past the casket of John F. Kennedy in the Capitol rotunda. Other thousands waited without success.

Charles J. Sullivan, chief of Capitol police, estimated 240-000 had moved past the bier of the slain President when the doors were closed to the public at 8:30 a.m.

At least 2,000 others, still waiting in a line stretching blocks away, were left stranded after standing for six to seven hours. Police steered them to vantage points around the Capitol plaza from which they could see the funeral procession leave for the White House.

The steady shuffle of feet had continued without a break from 3 p.m. Sunday through the afternoon and night as the crowds waited patiently for a chance to pay their last respects.

Former Vice President and Mrs. Richard Nixon were among the last to be admitted, along with a small group of officials' families and others, after the waiting line was halted.

Johnson Starts To Set Course For The Nation

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson travels the last miles with John F. Kennedy today—and then sets his own course in meetings with a massive array of world statesmen.

Everyone watched for clues as to how Johnson would get along with President Charles de Gaulle of France. De Gaulle differed from Kennedy on such great questions as NATO, the European Common Market, and the French government's insistence on its own nuclear force.

Whether Johnson, noted as a master persuader when he was the Democratic leader of the Senate, would get together with De Gaulle on an in-depth discussion of world affairs was not yet certain. But the possibility remained.

Reception Tonight

First came the sad task of accompanying the martyred President Kennedy's body to the grave. Part of the journey was to be afoot, from the White House to St. Matthews Cathedral for the requiem mass, then by car to Arlington National Cemetery, for a hero's burial.

After the funeral, Mrs. Kennedy arranged to receive the foreign dignitaries at the White House. Then Johnson plunges into his first round of personal diplomacy as President.

He scheduled a 90-minute reception — 5:30-7 p.m. — for the more than 100 foreign dignitaries who journeyed to Washington to pay their respects to the late President Kennedy.

The social gathering in the State Department's diplomatic reception rooms gives the new President little opportunity for more than a passing contact with foreign leaders with whom he will have more dealings later.

Today's emphasis, however, was on mourning, not international affairs.

Viet Nam Discussed

But in these swift moving days Johnson had to work business in between the hours of mourning.

Sunday he accompanied the Kennedy cortege from the White House to the Capitol where the flag-draped casket was placed in state under the dome of the rotunda.

He also talked over the federal budget for next year and held a top-level review of the troubled South Vietnamese situation.

Carrying through on an appointment originally set up by Kennedy, Johnson heard a report from the U.S. ambassador to Saigon, Henry Cabot Lodge.

White House sources subsequently announced that Johnson approved this three-point major policy directive:

1. The United States remains determined to help South Viet Nam stamp out the Communist Viet Cong.

2. Still in force is the Kennedy objective of withdrawing at least 1,000 U.S. servicemen from Viet Nam by the end of this year, and pulling out virtually the whole contingent of 16,-000 men by January 1965.

3. All U.S. personnel in South Viet Nam should aid the new, post-Diem Saigon government "in its consolidation, in its development of public support for its policies and for winning the war against the Viet Cong."

Erect and staring straight ahead, Mrs. Kennedy followed the casket up the steps, leading the children by the hand.

As Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, Chief Justice Earl Warren and House Speaker John McCormack intoned the eulogies over the public address system, the crowd began forming itself into a long line, waiting its turn to move into the rotunda and file past the flag-draped coffin.

It was the same spontaneity of affection that had caused thousands to break through the police barriers and join in line behind the funeral cortege as it moved down Pennsylvania Avenue. Nothing like it had ever happened before at a presidential funeral.

No One Speaks

All through the night people came to the Capitol. With slow steps and solemn faces they filed past the bier.

Some crossed themselves as they walked by, some dabbed at their eyes with sodden handkerchiefs, most stared with long unwavering gazes, their faces soft, their eyes sad.

No one spoke.

But not anything, not the legweary weight nor the numbing cold produced a word of complaint from the endless line of people.

Would they have come, dozens were asked, if they had known how long it would take. Of course, they replied. "He was our President."

Many Do Not Reach Rotunda

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thousands upon thousands of persons braved long hours in freezing weather to file past the casket of John F. Kennedy in the Capitol rotunda. Other thousands waited without success.

Charles J. Sullivan, chief of Capitol police, estimated 240-000 had moved past the bier of the slain President when the doors were closed to the public at 8:30 a.m.

At least 2,000 others, still waiting in a line stretching blocks away, were left stranded after standing for six to seven hours. Police steered them to vantage points around the Capitol plaza from which they could see the funeral procession leave for the White House.

The steady shuffle of feet had continued without a break from 3 p.m. Sunday through the afternoon and night as the crowds waited patiently for a chance to pay their last respects.

Former Vice President and Mrs. Richard Nixon were among the last to be admitted, along with a small group of officials' families and others, after the waiting line was halted.

Johnson Starts To Set Course For The Nation

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson travels the last miles with John F. Kennedy today—and then sets his own course in meetings with a massive array of world statesmen.

Everyone watched for clues as to how Johnson would get along with President Charles de Gaulle of France. De Gaulle differed from Kennedy on such great questions as NATO, the European Common Market, and the French government's insistence on its own nuclear force.

Whether Johnson, noted as a master persuader when he was the Democratic leader of the Senate, would get together with De Gaulle on an in-depth discussion of world affairs was not yet certain. But the possibility remained.

Reception Tonight

First came the sad task of accompanying the martyred President Kennedy's body to the grave. Part of the journey was to be afoot, from the White House to St. Matthews Cathedral for the requiem mass, then by car to Arlington National Cemetery, for a hero's burial.

After the funeral, Mrs. Kennedy arranged to receive the foreign dignitaries at the White House. Then Johnson plunges into his first round of personal diplomacy as President.

He scheduled a 90-minute reception — 5:30-7 p.m. — for the more than 100 foreign dignitaries who journeyed to Washington to pay their respects to the late President Kennedy.

The social gathering in the State Department's diplomatic reception rooms gives the new President little opportunity for more than a passing contact with foreign leaders with whom he will have more dealings later.

Today's emphasis, however, was on mourning, not international affairs.

Viet Nam Discussed

But in these swift moving days Johnson had to work business in between the hours of mourning.

Sunday he accompanied the Kennedy cortege from the White House to the Capitol where the flag-draped casket was placed in state under the dome of the rotunda.

He also talked over the federal budget for next year and held a top-level review of the troubled South Vietnamese situation.

Carrying through on an appointment originally set up by Kennedy, Johnson heard a report from the U.S. ambassador to Saigon, Henry Cabot Lodge.

White House sources subsequently announced that Johnson approved this three-point major policy directive:

1. The United States remains determined to help South Viet Nam stamp out the Communist Viet Cong.

2. Still in force is the Kennedy objective of withdrawing at least 1,000 U.S. servicemen from Viet Nam by the end of this year, and pulling out virtually the whole contingent of 16,000 men by January 1965.

3. All U.S. personnel in South Viet Nam should aid the new, post-Diem Saigon government "in its consolidation, in its development of public support for its policies and for winning the war against the Viet Cong."

BILL PERRON ANSWERS YOUR INSURANCE QUESTIONS

QUESTION: A short time ago my husband found his tool box missing. We have no idea who took it or just when it disappeared. We have no theft insurance but if we did have, would that loss be paid for?

ANSWER: Any theft coverage which had a mysterious disappearance clause would pay for the loss. Under this clause, articles which disappear unaccountably are presumed stolen and the insurance company settles the loss.

Great Grandson New Publisher Of Detroit News

DETROIT (AP) — Peter B. Clark, 35, a great-grandson of James E. Scripps who founded The Detroit News, has been named publisher of the newspaper and president of the Evening News Association.

Clark succeeds Warren S. Booth, who was elected chairman of the board of directors after 11 years as chief executive officer of The Evening News association, which owns the newspaper and WWJ-AM and FM and WWJ-TV. Booth also has been a director of the corporation since 1925.

Evening News Association directors also elected Edwin K. Wheeler to their board and named him executive vice president of the parent corporation. Wheeler will continue as general manager of the newspaper.

Clark, whose great-grandfather, James E. Scripps, founded The News on Aug. 23, 1873, served for the past two years as vice president and assistant publisher of the newspaper.

Clark's election continues a tradition of management of Michigan's largest newspaper by direct descendants of Scripps.

His grandmother, now Grace Scripps Johanson, is a daughter of James E. Scripps, who lives in LaJolla, Calif., which also is the home of Clark's father, Rex Scripps Clark.

Clark came to the News in 1961 as a secretary and assistant to the president. He was named second-in-command as vice-president and assistant publisher in November, 1961.

Born in Detroit in 1928, Clark attended Cranbrook school in Bloomfield Hills and finished high school in LaJolla, Calif.

He was graduated from Pomona College in 1952. He majored in government. Clark took his master's degree at Syracuse University a year later. He was awarded his doctorate in political science at the University of Chicago.

Clark was named assistant professor of political science at Yale University in 1959. He resigned this post to become an executive with the News.

Wheeler, 55, born also in Detroit, was educated in public schools here. He later attended Wayne University and took extention courses at Wayne and the University of Michigan. In 1958, he completed the advanced Management Program of the Harvard Business School.

In 25 years with the News, Wheeler has been an advertising salesman, director of WWJ-FM, assistant general manager of the combined WWJ operation, and served in several other ranking executive capacities.

pared to the public uproar over the slaying.

Communist propaganda organs abroad promptly depicted Oswald's death as a coverup to mask sinister rightist forces which they blamed for the President's assassination. Moscow bitterly resented the linking of Oswald with communism.

Booked For Murder

Americans themselves disagreed over the shooting of the cold-eyed Oswald. Some thought he got what he deserved. Others noted that no matter the enormity of the crime charged against him, he still was entitled by by law to his day in court.

Amid the furore, Ruby was booked on a murder charge and Dist. Atty. Wade announced he would press for his conviction and execution in the electric chair with the same vigor he had proposed to apply toward Oswald.

Oswald was arrested Friday, shortly after Kennedy's assassination and after the slaying of officer Tippit.

He insisted from the outset: "I did not kill President Kennedy. I did not kill anyone."

He stuck to this story during 48 hours of intensive questioning in temporary detention quarters in City Hall.

Prints On Gun

However, Wade said of his case against Oswald: "I have sent men to the electric chair with less evidence. The gun was here, his prints were on the gun, the gun was the gun that killed Kennedy, his palm prints were on the box on which the killer sat, and witnesses put him on the sixth floor at the time of the shooting."

The assassin fired on Kennedy from the sixth floor of the Texas School Book Depository building, which overlooked the route of the President's motorcade. Oswald was a warehouse employe of the firm.

Finally, police decided they would get no information from Oswald. They announced that he would be transferred by armored car from City Hall to a permanent maximum security cell in the Dallas County jail, about a mile away.

Some 200 newsmen and officials gathered in a basement ramp leading from a City Hall elevator to a driveway outside. Other curious spectators stood in bright sunshine outside to await Oswald's emergence.

Death Comes Quickly

Oswald, handcuffed, with detectives on either arm, came out of the elevator and took a few steps in the direction of the armored car parked halfway up the inclined ramp.

At that moment, the stocky, conservatively dressed Ruby lunged forward, stuck his pistol flush against Oswald's side and fired a single shot. The roar of the gun was somewhat muffled by its close proximity to the victim's body.

The bullet tore through Oswald's vital midsection organs, although it missed his heart. He was rushed to Parkland Hospital and into an emergency room only a few feet from the one where President Kennedy died.

Some of the same doctors who worked on the President tried just as desperately to save Oswald's life. Blood was administered. His chest was opened and his heart massaged by hand. But Oswald never regained consciousness and died at 1:07 p.m. The shooting occurred at 11:20 a.m.

Ruby owns a strip tease joint, the Carousel, in downtown Dallas about four blocks from police headquarters, and a dance hall, the Vegas, further out.

His real last name was Rubinstein. Early in life he was nicknamed "Sparky" because of his volatile nature.

Ruby drove up to City Hall shortly before the Oswald shooting. His background had given him an extensive acquaintance among Dallas policemen and there seemed no apparent reason why his presence amidst officials should be restricted. Chief Jess Curry explained why Oswald was being transferred in broad daylight.

He told newsmen: "If I hadn't promised you people I would not take Oswald until this morning, we would have taken him during the night. I told you I wouldn't back down on my pledge."

Ruby's single shot ended a strange career for Oswald.

After serving without distinction in the U.S. Marines and receiving a discharge as an undesirable, the New Orleans-born, Communist-converted Oswald went to Moscow in 1959 and announced his intention to renounce his American citizenship and live in the Soviet Union.

Later, Oswald changed his mind. Because he never actually had received Soviet citizenship, he was allowed to return to this country in 1962. With him he brought a petite Russian blonde, whom he had married there and who bore him two children, one 4 years old and the other 22 months old.

All his life, Oswald was known as a loner. It was alone in a crowd that he fell prone on the basement floor of City Hall while pandemonium broke loose above his motionless body.

Washington, Lincoln, Ulysses S. Grant, Woodrow Wilson and Franklin D. Roosevelt for guidance.

Mrs. Kennedy, who shared her husband's interest in history, agreed on the marching procession in the streets, a theme dating back to Washington's funeral.

Kennedy's Irish cousin, Miss Mary Ann Ryan in Dublin, was sent a special Kennedy family invitation, relayed by the U. S. Embassy, to come to the funeral. She had entertained Kennedy on his visit to his ancestral home at Dunganstown, Ireland, last summer.

Family Together

All of the members of the President's family, except his father, Joseph P. Kennedy, 75, had gathered in Washington for the funeral.

His mother, Rose Kennedy, 73, flew from Hyannis Port, Mass., Sunday night and with other members of the family also went to kneel at the casket in the Capitol rotunda.

Joining Mrs. Kennedy at the White House were the attorney general, his wife, Ethel, the President's sisters, Eunice Shriver, Patricia Lawford and Jean Smith, with their husbands, the President's youngest brother, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and his wife, Joan. Also Mrs. Kennedy's younger sister, Lee Radiwill, who flew here from London.

Mrs. Kennedy's mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh D. Auchincloss, who live in nearby Georgetown, were to be at the funeral.

While the President's funeral was under way here, a special private Mass was scheduled at the Cape Cod home of Kennedy's father, who is still suffering from effects of a stroke suffered in December 1961 and could not make the trip here.

Report Minor Mishaps Over Past Weekend

Sheriff's officers received reports of two minor mishaps over the past weekend.

Mike Lemire, 16, of 620 5th Ave. S., swerved to avoid a deer which jumped into the path if his car, lost control and skidded off the roadway onto the shoulder. There was no damage to the vehicle.

The incident occurred at 2:20 p. m. Sunday on M-35, near Jack's Restaurant. Officers said the car apparently blew the left rear tire about the same time Lemire swerved to avoid the mishap.

David Koski of Rock reported to sheriff's officers that the car he was driving skidded on icy pavement, ran off County Road H-14 and struck a stump about 2 p. m. last Saturday. The front end of the car was damaged, but Koski was not injured. The accident occurred about three miles north o. k on H-14.

pared to the public uproar over the slaying.

Communist propaganda organs abroad promptly depicted Oswald's death as a coverup to mask sinister rightist forces which they blamed for the President's assassination. Moscow bitterly resented the linking of Oswald with communism.

Booked For Murder

Americans themselves disagreed over the shooting of the cold-eyed Oswald. Some thought he got what he deserved. Others noted that no matter the enormity of the crime charged against him, he still was entitled by by law to his day in court.

Amid the furore, Ruby was booked on a murder charge and Dist. Atty. Wade announced he would press for his conviction and execution in the electric chair with the same vigor he had proposed to apply toward Oswald.

Oswald was arrested Friday, shortly after Kennedy's assassination and after the slaying of officer Tippit.

He insisted from the outset: "I did not kill President Kennedy. I did not kill anyone."

He stuck to this story during 48 hours of intensive questioning in temporary detention quarters in City Hall.

Prints On Gun

However, Wade said of his case against Oswald: "I have sent men to the electric chair with less evidence. The gun was here, his prints were on the gun, the gun was the gun that killed Kennedy, his palm prints were on the box on which the killer sat, and witnesses put him on the sixth floor at the time of the shooting."

The assassin fired on Kennedy from the sixth floor of the Texas School Book Depository building, which overlooked the route of the President's motorcade. Oswald was a warehouse employe of the firm.

Finally, police decided they would get no information from Oswald. They announced that he would be transferred by armored car from City Hall to a permanent maximum security cell in the Dallas County jail, about a mile away.

Some 200 newsmen and officials gathered in a basement ramp leading from a City Hall elevator to a driveway outside. Other curious spectators stood in bright sunshine outside to await Oswald's emergence.

Death Comes Quickly

Oswald, handcuffed, with detectives on either arm, came out of the elevator and took a few steps in the direction of the armored car parked halfway up the inclined ramp.

At that moment, the stocky, conservatively dressed Ruby lunged forward, stuck his pistol flush against Oswald's side and fired a single shot. The roar of the gun was somewhat muffled by its close proximity to the victim's body.

The bullet tore through Oswald's vital midsection organs, although it missed his heart. He was rushed to Parkland Hospital and into an emergency room only a few feet from the one where President Kennedy died.

Some of the same doctors who worked on the President tried just as desperately to save Oswald's life. Blood was administered. His chest was opened and his heart massaged by hand. But Oswald never regained consciousness and died at 1:07 p.m. The shooting occurred at 11:20 a.m.

Ruby owns a strip tease joint, the Carousel, in downtown Dallas about four blocks from police headquarters, and a dance hall, the Vegas, further out.

His real last name was Rubinstein. Early in life he was nicknamed "Sparky" because of his volatile nature.

Ruby drove up to City Hall shortly before the Oswald shooting. His background had given him an extensive acquaintance among Dallas policemen and there seemed no apparent reason why his presence amidst officials should be restricted. Chief Jess Curry explained why Oswald was being transferred in broad daylight.

He told newsmen: "If I hadn't promised you people I would not take Oswald until this morning, we would have taken him during the night. I told you I wouldn't back down on my pledge."

Ruby's single shot ended a strange career for Oswald.

After serving without distinction in the U.S. Marines and receiving a discharge as an undesirable, the New Orleans-born, Communist-converted Oswald went to Moscow in 1959 and announced his intention to renounce his American citizenship and live in the Soviet Union.

Later, Oswald changed his mind. Because he never actually had received Soviet citizenship, he was allowed to return to this country in 1962. With him he brought a petite Russian blonde, whom he had married there and who bore him two children, one 4 years old and the other 22 months old.

All his life, Oswald was known as a loner. It was alone in a crowd that he fell prone on the basement floor of City Hall while pandemonium broke loose above his motionless body.

What Happened To Night Calls Of Family Doc?

By WILLIAM CONWAY
Associated Press Staff Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — What has happened to doctors' old-fashioned night calls at homes?

This inquiring reporter made a quick sampling at this week's meeting of the Illinois Academy of General Practice.

Talks with seven family doctors from all parts of the state — all of whom make evening visits — left these impressions:

By and large, family doctors still make night calls. But they get fewer calls because of the patient's consideration for the physicians's health and his own money. One medical man estimated fees are 30 to 50 per cent higher after dark.

"The truth is we don't get as many night calls as we used to," said Dr. John D. McCarthy of Riverside, "largely because the patients have increased concern for the doctor's welfare and have become accustomed to going directly to the emergency room in a hospital, especially in cases of trauma. It gets the patient under treatment quicker, with better results and less expense to everybody concerned."

Some of the doctors asked anonymity.

"When the price goes up, people don't call you as often," commented a physician from a small town in Northern Illinois. "I'm glad to make them (calls) now at the price I charge for them."

"I wish I had a dime for every time I had to dress and go out on a call," said a medic from a community of 15,000 in Southern Illinois.

A gray-haired physician from a sizable city in the southern half of the state said he makes nocturnal calls.

"It's getting to the point where a lot of them won't do it," he added. "I was brought up in the old school."

"Our county is 600 square miles, and I even make calls outside the county," said Dr. C. J. Jannings of Fairfield. "I have only one rule — if the patient can't come to me, I go to him."

Newworks Have Busy Weekend

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — During the quiet time after Sunday's moving and incredible events, television networks sometimes aimed their cameras on the coffin of John F. Kennedy in the Capitol rotunda and showed the stream of people silently and reverently walking past the bier.

By the miracle of television, all Americans could pay their final respects in the same place. This was as it should be. Because of television the public knew, or felt it knew, President Kennedy better than any chief executive before him.

Sights To Remember

He had been a television visitor in most of our homes on an almost daily basis for more than three years. His death, therefore, was more than the tragic loss of a president or of a vital, needed young man. It was the loss of someone we felt we knew very well, almost as a member of a family.

We had seen him making formal speeches. We remember his grave warning of the Cuban crisis. But perhaps most of us got to know him best during those informal moments before the cameras—seated in a rocking chair talking informally and off the cuff from his White House office, being interviewed on the lawn of his Hyannis Port home, squinting against the sun and his hair ruffled by a sea wind, wittily parrying reporters questions in a light moment at a news conference.

During these last few days of national nightmare with shock piled on shock, television brought us more sights and sounds few of us will ever forget.

Eyes On Killer

There was the face of self-controlled Jacqueline Kennedy bending to her children during services in the Capitol. There was Caroline putting out a small white gloved hand to touch the coffin during a brief moment with her mother beside the bier. There was that appalling moment when Lee Harvey Oswald was shot down in Dallas police headquarters as, through television, the eyes of the nation were on him and his killer.

The performance of the three networks has been splendid. They covered the mournful events in Washington and the terrible events in Dallas with great crews of men and equipment. Amid all the confusion—even pandemonium at one point Sunday in Dallas—they kept a sense of balance and order.

For the most part, the coverage was done with dignity and good taste.

Regular programming will be resumed Tuesday and most of us will be glad to start picking up the threads of normal life again.

But television's fine performance during these critical days is something that they can be proud of and for which we can be grateful.

What Happened To Night Calls Of Family Doc?

By WILLIAM CONWAY
Associated Press Staff Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — What has happened to doctors' old-fashioned night calls at homes?

This inquiring reporter made a quick sampling at this week's meeting of the Illinois Academy of General Practice.

Talks with seven family doctors from all parts of the state — all of whom make evening visits — left these impressions:

By and large, family doctors still make night calls. But they get fewer calls because of the patient's consideration for the physicians's health and his own money. One medical man estimated fees are 30 to 50 per cent higher after dark.

"The truth is we don't get as many night calls as we used to," said Dr. John D. McCarthy of Riverside, "largely because the patients have increased concern for the doctor's welfare and have become accustomed to going directly to the emergency room in a hospital, especially in cases of trauma. It gets the patient under treatment quicker, with better results and less expense to everybody concerned."

Some of the doctors asked anonymity.

"When the price goes up, people don't call you as often," commented a physician from a small town in Northern Illinois. "I'm glad to make them (calls) now at the price I charge for them."

"I wish I had a dime for every time I had to dress and go out on a call," said a medic from a community of 15,000 in Southern Illinois.

A gray-haired physician from a sizable city in the southern half of the state said he makes nocturnal calls.

"It's getting to the point where a lot of them won't do it," he added. "I was brought up in the old school."

"Our county is 600 square miles, and I even make calls outside the county," said Dr. C. J. Jannings of Fairfield. "I have only one rule — if the patient can't come to me, I go to him."

LOOKING LIKE its namesake, the Army's XV-4A "Hummingbird" hovers motionless above the ground in a demonstration at Ft. Benning, Ga. The plane is designed to take off or land straight up or down, creep sideways, or stand still, and then dart away at speeds better than 500 miles an hour. (AP Wirephoto)

Newworks Have Busy Weekend

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — During the quiet time after Sunday's moving and incredible events, television networks sometimes aimed their cameras on the coffin of John F. Kennedy in the Capitol rotunda and showed the stream of people silently and reverently walking past the bier.

By the miracle of television, all Americans could pay their final respects in the same place. This was as it should be. Because of television the public knew, or felt it knew, President Kennedy better than any chief executive before him.

Sights To Remember

He had been a television visitor in most of our homes on an almost daily basis for more than three years. His death, therefore, was more than the tragic loss of a president or of a vital, needed young man. It was the loss of someone we felt we knew very well, almost as a member of a family.

We had seen him making formal speeches. We remember his grave warning of the Cuban crisis. But perhaps most of us got to know him best during those informal moments before the cameras—seated in a rocking chair talking informally and off the cuff from his White House office, being interviewed on the lawn of his Hyannis Port home, squinting against the sun and his hair ruffled by a sea wind, wittily parrying reporters questions in a light moment at a news conference.

During these last few days of national nightmare with shock piled on shock, television brought us more sights and sounds few of us will ever forget.

Eyes On Killer

There was the face of self-controlled Jacqueline Kennedy bending to her children during services in the Capitol. There was Caroline putting out a small white gloved hand to touch the coffin during a brief moment with her mother beside the bier. There was that appalling moment when Lee Harvey Oswald was shot down in Dallas police headquarters as, through television, the eyes of the nation were on him and his killer.

The performance of the three networks has been splendid. They covered the mournful events in Washington and the terrible events in Dallas with great crews of men and equipment. Amid all the confusion—even pandemonium at one point Sunday in Dallas—they kept a sense of balance and order.

For the most part, the coverage was done with dignity and good taste.

Regular programming will be resumed Tuesday and most of us will be glad to start picking up the threads of normal life again.

But television's fine performance during these critical days is something that they can be proud of and for which we can be grateful.

Mourning By Action

President Kennedy was buried today in Arlington National Cemetery, named for the home of Confederate General Robert E. Lee, which it surrounds. With interment, the funereal climax is passed and while the period of mourning continues, the affairs of the nation are taken up by the new administration.

A tragedy of the magnitude of the assassination of President Kennedy cannot be quickly accepted or understood. Millions of Americans described their reaction to the news of the President's murder with: "I just sat; it seemed I couldn't think." "I was stunned." "So wanton and completely senseless." "It is humbling." "It's a dreadful reminder of our essential insecurity; one crazed action by an obscure nobody and the whole world's balance of hope is destroyed." "Good heavens, what next?"

The genius of the American nation and the precious process which permitted democracy to survive here for so long and despite so many deadly tests, is that it has retained the capacity for democratic action. It has, in national crisis, avoided the human tendency to splinter and divide into many diverse groups of opinion. It has developed a two party system and been successful in involving enough of the electorate in the democratic process to make it operative.

The national campaigns for office are always noisy, and they are sometimes intemperate, angry and debased and occasionally unprincipled, perverted and murderous. Our genius has been in our ability to survive the provocations of the campaigns and to accept our chosen leader and to give him general and generous support.

President Kennedy was the heir of this system and the judgment of history must be that he significantly strengthened it. He was our first President who was a member of the Roman Catholic faith, although a Catholic was a signer of the Declaration of Independence.

No Catholic candidate for President will ever face the same conditions that John Fitzgerald Kennedy did in his quest of the presidency, and this is one of the many splendid judgments on the man. Al Smith, a great New York governor who probably would have made a fine President, was defeated on this issue. Emigrants, fleeing Old World exposures to church states, pronounced a policy of separation of church and state which strongly influenced America's politics from Colonial days.

All Presidents are truly untried until they are in office. The responsibilities of this seat of leadership of the Free World are so enormous that they change the man from the time of oath taking. He has been chosen on a basis of partisanship and a majority of policy plus factors. In modern America the choice of a President is always a compromise because the judgments are so many and so diverse that the ideal is beyond reality and a toting up of a majority of acceptable policies is the best that can be hoped for.

John Kennedy achieved the presidency narrowly. It is a trite expression that each new President faces the greatest problems of history, but this still approximates truth, because of the great internal problems of industrial age, affluent America, and especially because of our increasingly intimate and involved relationship with the other free nations of the world.

This is no time for critical appraisal of the administration of a President just assassinated. The reaction of world opinion to his death, however, is a most revealing comment upon the stature of Mr. Kennedy and the importance of the office which he held.

It is abundantly clear, even after discounting the graces of diplomacy and bereavement, that President Kennedy was held in very high respect, at home and abroad. Even the foes of his policies recognize the integrity of the man and the quality of his leadership in this highest office, where he became a symbol of hope for so many millions who live on hope.

Today there are memorial services for President Kennedy around the world. In Escanaba on Sunday in one of the many requiem sermons a clergyman suggested the finest memorial to the late President. His death was caused by hate. All humans indulge in it to some degree, perhaps. One of President Kennedy's greatest tasks was leadership in the elimination of hate, at home and abroad. This is the major step to love, to brotherhood and to peace.

In indulging in hate, suggested the clergyman, all of us are a little guilty of having contributed to the death of President Kennedy. He is beyond recalling, but the national principles of equality and justice for which he worked remain a challenge to every American and the most effective and meaningful way to memorialize him is to avoid indulgence in hate and to be intolerant of its practice.

---And This Is Just the Warm Up

Edson In Washington

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — The first compulsory arbitration board set up by Congress to settle a railway labor dispute is required by law to submit its findings by Nov. 26.

The board will decide whether firemen must be employed on freight train diesel locomotives and the makeup of freight train and yard crews.

So many other crises have arisen since a congressional resolution created this arbitration board last Aug. 28—just eight hours before a nationwide rail strike was scheduled—that many people may have forgotten what this was all about.

The seven-man board appointed by President Kennedy—three public members, two management and two labor representatives under chairman Ralph T. Seward — has just completed eight weeks of hearings on the two key issues they were given to decide.

The arbitration board's findings will go into effect not later than Jan. 25, or 60 days after being handed down. The final and binding award will stay in effect as long as the board directs. But this cannot be for more than two years unless the carriers and the five brotherhoods agree otherwise.

The congressional resolution setting up these conditions also bars any strike or any rules changes by management before Feb. 25, 1964. And it calls for resumption of bargaining between management and labor on four other issues in the four-year-old dispute.

These four management-proposed work rule changes were left in abeyance by the strike crisis last August:

- Revise wage standards for engine and train crews to reflect increased speed and longer runs for a day's pay.
- Eliminate rules banning crews from operating through present crew-change points.
- Abolish the lines now drawn between work performed by road crews and yard crews.
- End rules requiring the pay of standby operating employes when self - propelled equipment is used in track maintenance, repair or inspection.

At the same time, the brotherhoods also have demands which must be submitted to final negotiations, even though the carriers already have accepted presidential commission recommendations on these principal points:

- Job security for 27,000 firemen with dismissal pay or retraining benefits for 13,000 others.
- Pay operating train crews on both time and miles basis, raising wages for 75 per cent of the workers.
- Pay freight crews for overtime after eight hours on road.
- Reduce maximum hours work per day, per week, per month.
- Pay for holiday work at time-and-a-half of hourly rate.
- Provide lodging for employes away from home.

Handing down the arbitration award on the two key issues is expected to speed negotiations on these other points. But if the award favors one side, it is likely to make the other side take a tougher position in the renewed bargaining.

In the three months since Congress provided for compulsory arbitration on the two key issues there has not been time for the board to hit the road and investigate work rule practices first-hand. The board has had to rely on oral and written testimony.

In connection with the latter, the arbitrators have not ignored the voluminous record piled up on this case by the National Mediation Board, two emergency boards, and a presidential commission.

The big question is, how fa[illegible] will the arbitration board depart from previous recommendations?

Congress has been severely criticized by labor leaders for setting a compulsory arbitration precedent in this case, affecting 200,000 "on train" employes.

But it is notable that Congress did not provide the settlement would be binding forever. If either the carriers, or the brotherhoods change [illegible] after the two-year period, the dispute can be [illegible] all over again on other terms.

The Doctor Says:

Sock Disease Cure Outlined

By Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.

Feet, just as the rest of our bodies, perspire. But everyone doesn't have what Dr. W. B. Gibson has named the 'sweaty sock disease." This is a previously unrecognized disease that is especially common in children 5 to 10 years old.

If your child has it, you may have thought he was suffering from eczema, athlete's foot, excessive sweating or a reaction to the dyes used to color socks or cure leather.

The fault may lie in the use of socks of nonabsorbent synthetic textiles. Such socks may not allow the prespiration to evaporate quickly enough. The condition can be aggravated by wearing rubbers or rubber-soled sneakers and by excessive walking in rain or snow.

When the skin is waterlogged, friction against the shoes and between the toes may produce blisters or raw areas. Socks or shoes that are too tight or not properly fitted will also agravate the condition.

Since the raw feet become painful, the child cannot participate in sports. To make matters worse, his parents may start treating him with some leftover salve that had helped the baby's eczema. Any kind of greasy ointment will further prevent evaporation of the normal perspiration.

Or, just as bad, the parents may treat the feet vigorously with some medicine they saw advertised for athlete's foot. Many a simple skin condition in children and adults has been made worse by treatment with strong drugs that irritate the tender inflamed skin.

Treatment should start by removing the cause immediately. Well-fitting socks of cotton or wool should be worn and changed at least once a day. Sneakers, if worn in the gym, should never be worn al. day. In the house, the child should be encouraged to walk in his stocking feet or barefoot. Slippers or sandals should be worn as much as possible.

For the first three or four weeks of treatment of the acute stage, the feet should be soaked in cool corn starch solution using two tablespoons to a quart of water. If infection is present, your doctor may want to prescribe the local application of an antibiotic mixture.

MISERY BAY

Seeing the article in your pa per on Misery Bay on Lake Su perior, I would like to mention another Misery Bay.

It is located on M-35 eleven miles south of Escanaba at the mouth of No-See-Um Creek. Of the 11 homes in the bay, 6 are those of retirees.

In the early years the fishing was the main occupation. Whitefish and trout were taken from the lake in abundance.

At the mouth of the "No-See-Um" Creek is a beautiful bathing beach enjoyed by the natives as well as many of the people from the city. A beautiful roadside park is located on the creek and Green Bay.

The name Misery Bay is taken from the suffering of 2 fishermen who froze to death just off the shore in a great snowstorm, but the outstanding thing of Misery Bay is something that wouldn't be found any other place in the United States.

Of the 11 homes located on the bay, on all legal holidays, weather permitting, you can see 8 American flags flying.

The genius of the American nation and the precious process which permitted democracy to survive here for so long and despite so many deadly tests, is that it has retained the capacity for democratic action. It has, in national crisis, avoided the human tendency to splinter and divide into many diverse groups of opinion. It has developed a two party system and been successful in involving enough of the electorate in the democratic process to make it operative.

The national campaigns for office are always noisy, and they are sometimes intemperate, angry and debased and occasionally unprincipled, perverted and murderous. Our genius has been in our ability to survive the provocations of the campaigns and to accept our chosen leader and to give him general and generous support.

President Kennedy was the heir of this system and the judgment of history must be that he significantly strengthened it. He was our first President who was a member of the Roman Catholic faith, although a Catholic was a signer of the Declaration of Independence.

No Catholic candidate for President will ever face the same conditions that John Fitzgerald Kennedy did in his quest of the presidency, and this is one of the many splendid judgments on the man. Al Smith, a great New York governor who probably would have made a fine President, was defeated on this issue. Emigrants, fleeing Old World exposures to church states, pronounced a policy of separation of church and state which strongly influenced America's politics from Colonial days.

All Presidents are truly untried until they are in office. The responsibilities of this seat of leadership of the Free World are so enormous that they change the man from the time of oath taking. He has been chosen on a basis of partisanship and a majority of policy plus factors. In modern America the choice of a President is always a compromise because the judgments are so many and so diverse that the ideal is beyond reality and a toting up of a majority of acceptable policies is the best that can be hoped for.

John Kennedy achieved the presidency narrowly. It is a trite expression that each new President faces the greatest problems of history, but this still approximates truth, because of the great internal problems of industrial age, affluent America, and especially because of our increasingly intimate and involved relationship with the other free nations of the world.

This is no time for critical appraisal of the administration of a President just assassinated. The reaction of world opinion to his death, however, is a most revealing comment upon the stature of Mr. Kennedy and the importance of the office which he held.

It is abundantly clear, even after discounting the graces of diplomacy and bereavement, that President Kennedy was held in very high respect, at home and abroad. Even the foes of his policies recognize the integrity of the man and the quality of his leadership in this highest office, where he became a symbol of hope for so many millions who live on hope.

Today there are memorial services for President Kennedy around the world. In Escanaba on Sunday in one of the many requiem sermons a clergyman suggested the finest memorial to the late President. His death was caused by hate. All humans indulge in it to some degree, perhaps. One of President Kennedy's greatest tasks was leadership in the elimination of hate, at home and abroad. This is the major step to love, to brotherhood and to peace.

In indulging in hate, suggested the clergyman, all of us are a little guilty of having contributed to the death of President Kennedy. He is beyond recalling, but the national principles of equality and justice for which he worked remain a challenge to every American and the most effective and meaningful way to memorialize him is to avoid indulgence in hate and to be intolerant of its practice.

---And This Is Just the Warm Up

Edson In Washington

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — The first compulsory arbitration board set up by Congress to settle a railway labor dispute is required by law to submit its findings by Nov. 26.

The board will decide whether firemen must be employed on freight train diesel locomotives and the makeup of freight train and yard crews.

So many other crises have arisen since a congressional resolution created this arbitration board last Aug. 28—just eight hours before a nationwide rail strike was scheduled—that many people may have forgotten what this was all about.

The seven-man board appointed by President Kennedy—three public members, two management and two labor representatives under chairman Ralph T. Seward — has just completed eight weeks of hearings on the two key issues they were given to decide.

The arbitration board's findings will go into effect not later than Jan. 25, or 60 days after being handed down. The final and binding award will stay in effect as long as the board directs. But this cannot be for more than two years unless the carriers and the five brotherhoods agree otherwise.

The congressional resolution setting up these conditions also bars any strike or any rules changes by management before Feb. 25, 1964. And it calls for resumption of bargaining between management and labor on four other issues in the four-year-old dispute.

These four management-proposed work rule changes were left in abeyance by the strike crisis last August:

- Revise wage standards for engine and train crews to reflect increased speed and longer runs for a day's pay.
- Eliminate rules banning crews from operating through present crew-change points.
- Abolish the lines now drawn between work performed by road crews and yard crews.
- End rules requiring the pay of standby operating employes when self - propelled equipment is used in track maintenance, repair or inspection.

At the same time, the brotherhoods also have demands which must be submitted to final negotiations, even though the carriers already have accepted presidential commission recommendations on these principal points:

- Job security for 27,000 firemen with dismissal pay or retraining benefits for 13,000 others.
- Pay operating train crews on both time and miles basis, raising wages for 75 per cent of the workers.
- Pay freight crews for overtime after eight hours on road.
- Reduce maximum hours work per day, per week, per month.
- Pay for holiday work at time-and-a-half of hourly rate.
- Provide lodging for employes away from home.

Handing down the arbitration award on the two key issues is expected to speed negotiations on these other points. But if the award favors one side, it is likely to make the other side take a tougher position in the renewed bargaining.

In the three months since Congress provided for compulsory arbitration on the two key issues there has not been time for the board to hit the road and investigate work rule practices first-hand. The board has had to rely on oral and written testimony.

In connection with the latter, the arbitrators have not ignored the voluminous record piled up on this case by the National Mediation Board, two emergency boards, and a presidential commission.

The big question is, how far will the arbitration board depart from previous recommendations?

Congress has been severely criticized by labor leaders for setting a compulsory arbitration precedent in this case, affecting 200,000 "on train" employes.

But it is notable that Congress did not provide the settlement would be binding forever. If either the carriers, or the brotherhoods change after the two-year period, the dispute can be up all over again on other terms.

The Doctor Says:

Sock Disease Cure Outlined

By Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.

Feet, just as the rest of our bodies, perspire. But everyone doesn't have what Dr. W. B. Gibson has named the 'sweaty sock disease." This is a previously unrecognized disease that is especially common in children 5 to 10 years old.

If your child has it, you may have thought he was suffering from eczema, athlete's foot, excessive sweating or a reaction to the dyes used to color socks or cure leather.

The fault may lie in the use of socks of nonabsorbent synthetic textiles. Such socks may not allow the prespiration to evaporate quickly enough. The condition can be aggravated by wearing rubbers or rubber-soled sneakers and by excessive walking in rain or snow.

When the skin is waterlogged, friction against the shoes and between the toes may produce blisters or raw areas. Socks or shoes that are too tight or not properly fitted will also agravate the condition.

Since the raw feet become painful, the child cannot participate in sports. To make matters worse, his parents may start treating him with some leftover salve that had helped the baby's eczema. Any kind of greasy ointment will further prevent evaporation of the normal perspiration.

Or, just as bad, the parents may treat the feet vigorously with some medicine they saw advertised for athlete's foot. Many a simple skin condition in children and adults has been made worse by treatment with strong drugs that irritate the tender inflamed skin.

Treatment should start by removing the cause immediately. Well-fitting socks of cotton or wool should be worn and changed at least once a day. Sneakers, if worn in the gym, should never be worn all day. In the house, the child should be encouraged to walk in his stocking feet or barefoot. Slippers or sandals should be worn as much as possible.

For the first three or four weeks of treatment of the acute stage, the feet should be soaked in cool corn starch solution using two tablespoons to a quart of water. If infection is present, your doctor may want to prescribe the local application of an antibiotic mixture.

MISERY BAY

Seeing the article in your paper on Misery Bay on Lake Superior, I would like to mention another Misery Bay.

It is located on M-35 eleven miles south of Escanaba at the mouth of No-See-Um Creek. Of the 11 homes in the bay, 6 are those of retirees.

In the early years the fishing was the main occupation. Whitefish and trout were taken from the lake in abundance.

At the mouth of the "No-See-Um" Creek is a beautiful bathing beach enjoyed by the natives as well as many of the people from the city. A beautiful roadside park is located on the creek and Green Bay.

The name Misery Bay is taken from the suffering of 2 fishermen who froze to death just off the shore in a great snowstorm, but the outstanding thing of Misery Bay is something that wouldn't be found any other place in the United States.

Of the 11 homes located on the bay, on all legal holidays, weather permitting, you can see 8 American flags flying.

Violence Makes Americans Think

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — It's time America took a look at itself.

When an African or Asian leader is slain it may be regarded here as the result of a society less advanced than this one. This is an American myth, as Americans have demonstrated once again.

A president and a policeman shot to death and a governor wounded in Dallas and the man charged with the crimes in turn murdered, before he got a fair trial, by a gunman who leaped through police lines to shoot him.

These crimes are a product of the American society where violence and talk of violence increase as state officials defy federal court orders until troops are called out to stop them.

Yet, supreme achievements of the Western world are supposed to be respect for law, democratic and orderly change in government, a fair trial, and freedom and protection of freedom for the individual man, no matter who he is.

Four Assassinated

If President Kennedy had been the first president killed in office, it would be awful enough.

It would mean one individual, ignoring constitutional and peaceful change in government, decided to take the law into his own hands to eliminate an elected leader.

But killing American presidents, or trying to, is now assuming the complexion of a tradition. Four have been assassinated: Lincoln, Garfield, McKinley, and now Kennedy.

Attempts were made on the lives of three other presidents: Jackson, Franklin D. Roosevelt and Truman. A gunman shot Theodore Roosevelt after his presidency but while he was seeking re-election.

In that same period of almost 100 years not one British prime minister was assassinated. A madman did kill a prime minister, Spencer Perceval, 151 years ago.

It can't be argued the British are basically different or that among them the percentage of lunatics or discontented are proportionately smaller. They are simply more dedicated to peaceful and orderly government.

Crime On Increase

As long ago as 1200 B.C. an Egyptian king, Ramses III, looking over his own administration of law and justice, said: "I made the land safe so that a lone woman could go on her way freely and none would molest her."

That's more than the United States can say today, 3,100 years later, even about the safety of its presidents. But the worst criminal, even the killer of a president, is entitled to a fair trial.

Even here in Washington, the nation's capital, there is growing uneasiness about walking the streets at night because of the number of people being robbed, stabbed, shot or dragged into alleys to be raped.

Adlai E. Stevenson, twice a presidential candidate and now U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, found exactly one month ago, also in Dallas, that not even a man in his position was safe from some violence on the street.

After leaving an auditorium, where he made a speech on the 18th birthday of the United Nations, he was surrounded by pickets, one of whom spat in his face. He was hit on the head with a sign carried by a woman.

Forces Of Hatred

Stevenson, who has a fine sense of history, freedom and justice, told her: "It's all riyht to have your own views but don't hit anyone."

Sunday Chief Justice Earl Warren, at an eulogy beside Kennedy's casket, wondered what moved "some misguided wretch" to murder the President.

He said: "We do know that such acts are commonly stimulated by forces of hatred and malevolence such as today are eating their way into the bloodstream of American life. What a price to pay for fanaticism."

He knows about fanaticism. Hate has spilled all over him and the other justices of the Supreme Court for their decisions on the side of freedom and civil rights.

He has been ridiculed and mocked. There have been calls to lynch him and impeach him for "giving aid and comfort to the Communist conspiracy."

Also Sunday former Vice President Richard M. Nixon asked all Americans to "pledge themselves to fight this tendency of hatred and violence we've seen in the last two days. We cannot help but deplore a man taking the law into his own hands."

And Dr. A. Raymond Grant, a Methodist bishop in Oregon, said: "I shuddered when I learned that crowds cheered when Lee Oswald had been killed. God have mercy upon us, that human life has become so cheap and that tragedy has been heaped upon tragedy."

Frankfort Uses Home-Sponsored Trading Stamps

EDITOR'S NOTE — Trading stamps are big business across the nation and in Michigan the stamps have been a subject of controversy between merchants and customers.

The following story details action by merchants in one Michigan community to combat domination of the trading stamp field by stamp companies operating on a national basis.

By A. F. MAHAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

FRANKFORT (AP) — Grocer Webb Fairchild still thinks trading stamps are a nuisiance, but he and fellow merchants in this Lake Michigan port now are flooding the Frankfort countryside with them.

These stamps are different from those distributed elsewhere. These are home-sponsored, home-redeemed "Frankfort Saving Stamps."

"A filled book is worth $2.50 and, with only a couple or so exceptions, any merchant in town will redeem them for whatever you want off his shelves.

A few merchants in this town of 1,690 grudgingly had given stamps for years. Nobody really pushed distribution until a national food chain (A.&P.) broke its long-standing, no-stamp policy and induced some independents here to adopt its brand of stamps.

Tourist Trade Caught

A housewives' rush developed for the stamp-givers.

"So," says Webb Fairchild, "my dad, Charles, and I decided if you can't beat 'em, join 'em. But danged if we were going to make some stamp company rich in the process. We began talking it over with our fellow members of the Chamber of Commerce."

Frankfort Saving Stamps made their debut May 6 in time to catch the summer tourist trade that flocks in from nearby Crystal Lake and elsewhere from the surrounding resort country.

One stamp is given for each 25 cents spent. A $1 purchase will get you four.

The stamps pointed up the value of summer-visitor trade. One customer who'd been here only two months presented four books for redemption — and it takes $210 worth of purchases to acquire enough stamps to fill one book.

Seventeen merchants, including the town's two restaurants, now give home-grown stamps. The Frankfort State Savings Bank is broker for the stamps and also redeems filled books for merchant-givers.

A merchant pays the bank $7 for enough stamps to cover $500 worth of purchases. After a book is redeemed for $2.50 in merchandise, he can take it to the bank and get $2.50 cash.

Couldn't a book-holder redeem at the bank for cash?

"No," said the younger Fairchild. "If we did that then we'd lose the profit we'd make out of the $2.50 trade-in purchase."

Kitty Built Up

The Frankfort Saving Stamps plan now is sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, and 25 cents out of the $7 that a merchant pays for a $500 book of stamps goes into a special fund set up to buy Christmas decorations for the town.

As of mid-november, Fairchild reported more than $150 in the Christmas kitty.

Merchants can buy enough of these home-grown stamps to cover a $1 purchase for about a cent and a quarter. Fairchild said they would cost more if bought from a regular trading stamp concern.

Besides, the stamp company instead of the merchants would benefit from the 15 per cent of stamps which are lost, burned or otherwise destroyed and never redeemed. On top of that, a company's redemption center would be reaping the difference between the list price at which it distributes "gifts" and the wholesale price which it pays for them.

When a Frankfort merchant redeems, he redeems at whatever price a particular item is marked on his counter — and, of course, he'd figured in a prfit when he marked it.

The home-grown idea caught on quickly. A drug store which had adopted the chain grocery's stamps, switched to Frankfort. Another which was giving two name-brand stamps quit them both and adopted Frankfort.

A local grocer competitor of Fairchild's gave up one of two name-brand stamps and substituted Frankfort. A department store switched from the chain grocer's brand to local.

News of Frankfort's plan has got around, now several other smaller Michigan towns are inquiring about the mechanics of setting up something similar.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Mrs. Grace Cole described a Japanese-made automobile in such glowing terms — "smooth Oriental beauty with solid Occidental practicality" — that she won a trip to Japan as a prize.

Then, she said she'd never driven the auto she described. But the trip included use of one of the cars while in Japan, with a chauffeur to drive it.

He Won't Talk

Dear Ann Landers: I have been married to this man for 29 years. He was never much of a talker, but these past two years he has clammed up completely.

Months go by and he doesn't say one word to me. When I ask him a direct question he nods yes or no. On rare occasions when he wants to tell me something he will write a note and leave it on the kitchen table. On February 4, he wrote a note which read:

"Don't buy me any more sausage until we finish the ham."

On September 6, he wrote: "Evelyn says she will go to church with you if you can be ready to leave at 5:15."

These have been his only attempts to communicate with me in 1963. He is a good man, morally, doesn't drink or run around, so perhaps I should not be so critical. But it would held a lot if you could tell me why he is so quiet —LONESOME FOR CONVERSATION

Dear Lonesome: Your husband is more than "quiet." He's sick. In the meantime, please read the following letter. It may provide you with a small measure of comfort.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I have been married seven years. We have an adorable little girl, and a lovely home Clifton was educated in England and holds an excellent position. We have no financial worries or in-law problems. So why am I writing? Because Clifton is a continuous talker and the sound of his voice is driving me around the bend.

He has an opinion on everything. Every night of my life I get an oration on politics, unions, education, the gold standard or foreign aid.

He switches readily from world-afairs to "Why didn't you change the pillow cases last night — how come one of your eyebrows is arched higher than the other — why did you water the front lawn and not the back?" He can rattle on for two solid hours about absolutely nothing.

Sometimes I get so undone from listening to his interminable dialogues that I go into the bathroom and lock the door to get away from him He follows me, stands outside and continues to talk. When I tell him I am taking a shower and can't hear (I even turn on the faucets) he goes on talking.

What makes a person gab incessantly? Please tell me what to do before I have a nervous breakdown. —RAGGED EDGE

Dear Edge: Your husband is a compulsive talker. People who have this neurotic compulsion cannot be silenced by suggestion or insistence.

Urge him to get professional help. In the meantime, continue to take long evening showers and try to tune him out by concentrating on other things when he starts to talk.

Dear Ann Landers: Last evening our son, who will soon be 14 in a few months, received a telephone call from a girl who is in his room at school.

Rick answered the phone. When he heard the girl's voice he replied, "Yes, I am going to the game tomorrow but I have to do my homework now. Good-bye."

His mother praised Rick for his directness, because as she put it, "Girls should not be telephoning boys."

I felt that Rick had been rude and that he should not be so curt in the future — no matter who calls.

Please give your views. If I am wrong I would appreciate being straightened out. — SPOKANE READER

Dear Spoke: This is going to be a split decision — 60 for you and 40 for the opposition.

Girls should not be calling boys. But Rick could have been more gentle. It was not necessary to saw her off so abruptly. Even at 13, a boy should know the value of a little oil to lubricate the machinery of human relations.

Johnson Known As Man Who Gets Things Done

WASHINGTON (AP)—Lyndon Baines Johnson is a 6-foot, 3-inch Texan with a reputation as a man who gets things done.

He made his mark as the Democratic leader of the Senate with a dazzling performance as a behind-the-scenes operator who steered a middle course politically.

The 55-year-old President is a hard driver—of himself and of others. But when he is in a relaxing mood, he can charm the birds out of the trees.

During the years 1955 to 1961 when he was the Senate's majority leader and Republican Dwight D. Eisenhower was president, Johnson counseled his fellow Democrats against opposition for opposition's sake.

He urged a course of responsibility as best for his party and the country and preached the doctrine that reasonable men of good will can resolve their differences.

One-Man Show

"Let us reason together," was one of his favorite admonitions to his colleagues.

Johnson ran virtually a one-man show, serving as the Democratic floor leader, chairman of the Democratic conference, chairman of the party steering committee and chairman of the policy committee.

He was always a man on the move, nervous, fidgety and impatient. Whether in his office, his car or his home, he is apt to be on the telephone—talking, persuading, arranging.

After suffering a severe heart attack on July 2, 1955, Johnson quit smoking. Until then he had been a chain smoker, burning up three packs of cigarettes a day.

He did not noticeably slow his pace despite his brush with death.

Some senators found his way of running the Senate hard to take. Mostly the criticism came from liberal Democrats resentful of Johnson's middle-of-the-road course, but there was some grumbling from others that he was iron-handed and inconsiderate.

Born In Texas

Johnson is a man who likes to be liked and who is sensitive to criticism. He also has a streak of vanity, as shown when he tells photographers to take pictures only from his left side.

Johnson sometimes loses his temper, but he is no pop-off. Most of his statements are carefully prepared. He is no great shakes as an orator, and many of his speeches are larded with homilies.

The new President was born in Stonewall, Tex., Aug. 27, 1908, and was educated at Southwest State Teachers College, San Marcos, Tex., and at Georgetown Law School.

He was married to the former Claudia—Lady Bird—Taylor in 1934. They have two daughters, Lynda Bird, 19, and Lucy Baines, 16.

Johnson was elected to the House from Texas in 1936. In 1948, at the age of 40, he was elected to the Senate. Four years later the Senate Democrats chose him as their leader. In 1960 he lost the Democratic presidential nomination to Kennedy, who then chose him for second place on the ticket.

Medical School Planned At MSU

EAST LANSING (AP) — Despite a committee's recommendation to the contrary, Michigan State University indicates it intends to proceed with plans for a two-year program of medical school education.

Establishment of such a program could lay the groundwork for eventual creation of a full-fledged, four-year medical school at the East Lansing campus.

In so doing, MSU would be ignoring the recommendations of the Coordinating Council for Public Higher Education, which this week adopted a report recommending a different approach.

A committee appointed by the council to study medical school needs in Michigan suggested no plans for a third medical school be made before 1968.

Instead, it said immediate steps should be taken to expand medical school facilities at the University of Michigan and Wayne State University.

As far as MSU is concerned, the committee said, its Institute of Biology and Medicine could handle 50 candidates for MD degrees during the first 1 months of schooling.

At the end of that time, the students would transfer to either U-M or Wayne State.

Although MSU officials said they were satisfied with the report and that MSU is not thinking in terms of a four-year school at this time, it seems apparent they have no intention of following the committee recommendation.

MSU, instead, will stick with its original plan to offer a full two-year program of medical schooling at the institute, clinical training included.

Officials said MSU has been "committed" to this plan for three years, and intends to "go forward with it."

This means MSU must find financial resources to furnish laboratory and office space, and to add at least six full-time doctors to the institute's teaching staff.

Another 15 doctors in the Lansing area would serve as part-time clinical faculty.

Actress Keeps 39 To 55 Cats

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Janine Grandel loves cats. Anywhere from 39 to 55 of them.

That's how many felines Miss Grandel harbored from time to time at her Hollywood home, Municipal Court was told.

The 44-year-old French-born actress received a suspended 6-month jail sentence after pleading guilty to maintaining a nuisance. The court warned her to restrict her cats to three, the legal limit.

THEY KNOW HIM NOW

UMATILLA, Fla. (AP)—"The bees don't sting me much anymore . . . now that they've gotten to know me," says 15-year-old Jerry Latner, who has 60 hives of bees now and hopes to have 300 by his graduation day three years from now.

At times Jerry has been treated for as many as a dozen bites on one hand. He has built up an immunity to the stings and wouldn't find them as uncomfortable now as he did in the beginning when the bees attacked him frequently.

Introduced to the bee business fby his vocational agriculture teacher, Jerry eventually hopes to have 800 hives in production. He builds his frames for the hives and does his own extracting of honey from the combs.

Detroit Men In Honor Guard

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two suburban Detroit men are among the joint military guard of honor at the casket of President Kennedy in the Capitol Rotunda.

Captain Michael D. Groves of Birmingham, is commanding officer of the Honor Guard Company of the 1st Battalion, 3rd Infantry, stationed at nearby Ft. Myers, Va.

A navy man, George J. Perrault, of Hazel Park, is a member of the joint guard.

The unit, known as "The Old Guard," furnishes honor guards for numerous official occasions in Washington, including the men who watch over the tombs of the unknown soldiers.

The joint guard at the Rotunda is composed of men from all services. Five are on duty at a time and the guard is changed every half hour. The men will remain on duty until the casket leaves the capitol Monday noon.

A third Michigan man, Pfc James R. Gist, 21, of Flint, is an instructor charged with training men for Honor Guard duty.

Straits Railway Ferry Doomed

CHICAGO (AP) — Mackinac Transportation Co. will seek federal permission to abandon its railroad car ferry service between St. Ignace and Mackinaw City because it cannot afford to repair its ferry, the firm said.

The company said the Coast Guard has ordered the ferry removed from service by Dec. 31 because it does not meet requirements.

The new President was born in Stonewall, Tex., Aug. 27, 1908, and was educated at Southwest State Teachers College, San Marcos, Tex., and at Georgetown Law School.

He was married to the former Claudia—Lady Bird—Taylor in 1934. They have two daughters, Lynda Bird, 19, and Lucy Baines, 16.

Johnson was elected to the House from Texas in 1936. In 1948, at the age of 40, he was elected to the Senate. Four years later the Senate Democrats chose him as their leader. In 1960 he lost the Democratic presidential nomination to Kennedy, who then chose him for second place on the ticket.

Detroit Men In Honor Guard

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two suburban Detroit men are among the joint military guard of honor at the casket of President Kennedy in the Capitol Rotunda.

Captain Michael D. Groves of Birmingham, is commanding officer of the Honor Guard Company of the 1st Battalion, 3rd Infantry, stationed at nearby Ft. Myers, Va.

A navy man, George J. Perrault, of Hazel Park, is a member of the joint guard.

The unit, known as "The Old Guard," furnishes honor guards for numerous official occasions in Washington, including the men who watch over the tombs of the unknown soldiers.

The joint guard at the Rotunda is composed of men from all services. Five are on duty at a time and the guard is changed every half hour. The men will remain on duty until the casket leaves the capitol Monday noon.

A third Michigan man, Pfc James R. Gist, 21, of Flint, is an instructor charged with training men for Honor Guard duty.

Straits Railway Ferry Doomed

CHICAGO (AP) — Mackinac Transportation Co. will seek federal permission to abandon its railroad car ferry service between St. Ignace and Mackinaw City because it cannot afford to repair its ferry, the firm said.

The company said the Coast Guard has ordered the ferry removed from service by Dec. 31 because it does not meet requirements.

Medical School Planned At MSU

EAST LANSING (AP) — Despite a committee's recommendation to the contrary, Michigan State University indicates it intends to proceed with plans for a two-year program of medical school education.

Establishment of such a program could lay the groundwork for eventual creation of a full-fledged, four-year medical school at the East Lansing campus.

In so doing, MSU would be ignoring the recommendations of the Coordinating Council for Public Higher Education, which this week adopted a report recommending a different approach.

A committee appointed by the council to study medical school needs in Michigan suggested no plans for a third medical school be made before 1968.

Instead, it said immediate steps should be taken to expand medical school facilities at the University of Michigan and Wayne State University.

As far as MSU is concerned, the committee said, its Institute of Biology and Medicine could handle 50 candidates for MD degrees during the first 1 months of schooling.

At the end of that time, the students would transfer to either U-M or Wayne State.

Although MSU officials said they were satisfied with the report and that MSU is not thinking in terms of a four-year school at this time, it seems apparent they have no intention of following the committee recommendation.

MSU, instead, will stick with its original plan to offer a full two-year program of medical schooling at the institute, clinical training included.

Officials said MSU has been "committed" to this plan for three years, and intends to "go forward with it."

This means MSU must find financial resources to furnish laboratory and office space, and to add at least six full-time doctors to the institute's teaching staff.

Another 15 doctors in the Lansing area would serve as part-time clinical faculty.

Actress Keeps 39 To 55 Cats

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Janine Grandel loves cats. Anywhere from 39 to 55 of them.

That's how many felines Miss Grandel harbored from time to time at her Hollywood home, Municipal Court was told.

The 44-year-old French-born actress received a suspended 6-month jail sentence after pleading guilty to maintaining a nuisance. The court warned her to restrict her cats to three, the legal limit.

THEY KNOW HIM NOW

UMATILLA, Fla. (AP)—"The bees don't sting me much anymore . . . now that they've gotten to know me," says 15-year-old Jerry Latner, who has 60 hives of bees now and hopes to have 300 by his graduation day three years from now.

At times Jerry has been treated for as many as a dozen bites on one hand. He has built up an immunity to the stings and wouldn't find them as uncomfortable now as he did in the beginning when the bees attacked him frequently.

Introduced to the bee business fby his vocational agriculture teacher, Jerry eventually hopes to have 800 hives in production. He builds his frames for the hives and does his own extracting of honey from the combs.

STUFFED MUSHROOMS are a center of attraction

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Mushrooms for Thanksgiving? Of course, but usually in the turkey stuffing or gravy. This year serve them in a different way. Stuff them with a seasoned cheese mix topped with buttered bread crumbs. A delicious extra to the big feast.

Stuffed Fresh Mushrooms
(6 servings)

12 large whole fresh mushrooms
2 cups finely chopped mushroom stems
½ cup finely chopped celery
2 tablespoons finely chopped fresh onion
4 tablespoons butter or margarine
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon ground black pepper
½ cup mild shredded Cheddar cheese
1 tablespoon mayonnaise
¼ cup buttered bread crumbs

Wash mushrooms and remove stems, leaving the caps intact. Saute mushroom stems, celery and onion in 2 tablespoons of the butter or margarine 5 minutes or until vegetables are tender. Add salt, black pepper and cheese. Stir until cheese is melted. Add mayonnaise and mix well. Melt remaining butter or margarine and brush over the entire surface of mushroom. Fill with the cooked mixture. Arrange on buttered baking sheet. Top each with 1 teaspoon buttered bread crumbs. Broil until brown, about 5 minutes.

Savory Turkey Stuffing

1 ⅓ cups hot water
½ pound butter or margarine
1 can (6-ounce) chopped broiled mushrooms
2 cups shredded carrots
2 packages (8-ounce each) herb seasoned stuffing

In a large skillet or Dutch oven combine water, butter and mushrooms, including broth. Add carrots and bring to a boil. Add both packages of stuffing all at once to the liquid, tossing lightly with two forks until stuffing is thoroughly moistened. This makes enough stuffing for two 5-pound roasting chickens, two 6-8 pound Beltsville turkeys or one 12-14-pound turkey.

FOUR-SISTER FARM

VALLEY FALLS, Kan. (AP)—Four sisters, all retired school teachers and in their 80s, operate their family farm near this northeastern Kansas town.

They are Miss Kate Goddard, Mrs. Anna Goddard Canfield, Miss Mary Goddard and Miss Geneva Goddard. Each has a life certificate in teaching from Emporia (Kan.) State Teachers College.

A neice, Mrs. Fred M. Moore of Topeka, Kan., says the four get up at 5 a. m., daily and work each morning before resting in the afternoon. They take care of 100 chickens, raise a garden, milk and churn, crochet, grow flowers, quilt, watch television and read avidly, Mrs. Moore says.

However, they have a farmer hired to put in crops and care for the livestock.

The farm was purchased by their parents 82 years ago.

Newspaper want ads are a big sell! Eight hundred million was spent on classified ads last year . . .more than for all television spot announcements or radio advertising.

Children Are First Concern Of All Mothers

EAST LANSING — What troubles you most?

"Children" were named most frequently as the "number one" answer to this question in a recent Michigan State University study of 413 Michigan mothers.

Young mothers tended to be most concerned about their children's health, while older mothers expressed greatest worry about their youngsters' education.

The study was conducted for the MSU Cooperative Extension Service home economics-family living education program by Carl J. Couch, Mason E. Miller and James P. Bebermeyer.

The researchers interviewed women in Antrim, Lapeer and Livingston counties and the city and suburbs of Pontiac. They worked wth two groups: young mothers, mostly 21-30 years old, whose oldest child was not more than three, and older mothers whose youngest child was 19. The older women were generally 41 to 55 years of age.

All Alike

"The younger women had mostly just entered their primary roles of mother, wife and housekeeper," the researchers explained. "They would be expected to have different kinds of concerns than the older women who are experienced in these three roles but now find their roles changing as their children leave home."

There was little difference between the two samples in areas of concern. Sixty per cent of the mothers named "children" as first or second major concern. Concern with "self" was named next most frequently. "Husbands" were named third most often.

The mothers expressed little concern with meal planning and preparation or buying for home and family. Only a small minority expressed concerns over husband-wife relations.

When health was named as a concern, younger homemakers mentioned the health of children most frequently while older women were concerned with their own health of their husbands' health.

Few women expressed any concern with events or people outside the family.

These women turned most often to professional sources—such as doctors as teachers — for help with problems with children and husbands. For information on food, they went most frequently to mass media, such as newspapers, or to specialized media, such as cookbooks.

Holiday Tradition

PLUM PUDDING from your own kitchen is perfect for Thanksgiving or Christmas and it can be prepared ahead.

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

New England families often serve plum pudding, along with the traditional pies for Thanksgiving dinner.

If this custom appeals to you, we urge you to try our favorite modern recipe for a steamed pudding of this kind. To us, this pudding is more appealing than the old-time English-type plum pudding because it's lighter in texture and flavor. Try this recipe and see if you don't agree.

You can make this pudding ahead, remove it from its mold, wrap it appropriately and freezer-store. When you're ready to serve the dessert—whether this is to be at Thanksgiving or Christmas—upwrap it, turn it back into its original mold, defrost and resteam for about an hour.

Holiday Pudding

½ cup unsulphured molasses
½ cup orange juice
1 cup seedless raisins
1 cup (one 8-ounce jar or package) diced mixed candied fruit and peels
1 large apple, pared and chopped (1 cup)
1 tablespoon grated orange rind
2 eggs
½ cup ground suet, packed down
¾ cup fine dry bread crumbs
1 cup coarsely chopped nuts
½ cup sifted flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon baking soda
¼ cup sugar
½ teaspoon each salt and cinnamon
¼ teaspoon each allspice and cloves

In a small bowl stir together the molasses and orange juice; stir in the raisins, candied fruit, apple and orange rind; let stand 1 hour. In a large mixing bowl beat the eggs enough to combine yolks and whites; mix in suet, bread crumbs and nuts. Sift in together the flour, baking powder, baking soda, sugar, salt, cinnamon, allspice and cloves; mix well. Add fruit mixture; mix well. Turn into a greased 2-quart pudding mold with tight-fitting cover, or cover with aluminum foil and tie securely with string. Place on rack in deep kettle; pour in boiling water to half the depth of the mold. Cover; steam 5 hours, adding more boiling water during steaming if necessary. Serve warm with Hard Sauce. Makes 12 servings.

WOOSTER, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station maintains a garden of more than 100 varieties of perennial flower plants. Thousands visit it annually.

Dr. Robert O. Miller, who directs care of the garden, says one of its main purposes is to allow home gardeners to see growth habits of particular plants in order to judge whether they want them in their own plots.

Red hair is an individual anomaly, usually associated with freckles, and there are no red-haired races.

STUFFED MUSHROOMS are a center of attraction

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Mushrooms for Thanksgiving? Of course, but usually in the turkey stuffing or gravy. This year serve them in a different way. Stuff them with a seasoned cheese mix topped with buttered bread crumbs. A delicious extra to the big feast.

Stuffed Fresh Mushrooms
(6 servings)

12 large whole fresh mushrooms
2 cups finely chopped mushroom stems
½ cup finely chopped celery
2 tablespoons finely chopped fresh onion
4 tablespoons butter or margarine
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon ground black pepper
½ cup mild shredded Cheddar cheese
1 tablespoon mayonnaise
¼ cup buttered bread crumbs

Wash mushrooms and remove stems, leaving the caps intact. Saute mushroom stems, celery and onion in 2 tablespoons of the butter or margarine 5 minutes or until vegetables are tender. Add salt, black pepper and cheese. Stir until cheese is melted. Add mayonnaise and mix well. Melt remaining butter or margarine and brush over the entire surface of mushroom. Fill with the cooked mixture. Arrange on buttered baking sheet. Top each with 1 teaspoon buttered bread crumbs. Broil until brown, about 5 minutes.

Savory Turkey Stuffing

1 ⅓ cups hot water
½ pound butter or margarine
1 can (6-ounce) chopped broiled mushrooms
2 cups shredded carrots
2 packages (8-ounce each) herb seasoned stuffing

In a large skillet or Dutch oven combine water, butter and mushrooms, including broth. Add carrots and bring to a boil. Add both packages of stuffing all at once to the liquid, tossing lightly with two forks until stuffing is thoroughly moistened. This makes enough stuffing for two 5-pound roasting chickens, two 6-8 pound Beltsville turkeys or one 12-14-pound turkey.

FOUR-SISTER FARM

VALLEY FALLS, Kan. (AP)—Four sisters, all retired school teachers and in their 80s, operate their family farm near this northeastern Kansas town.

They are Miss Kate Goddard, Mrs. Anna Goddard Canfield, Miss Mary Goddard and Miss Geneva Goddard. Each has a life certificate in teaching from Emporia (Kan.) State Teachers College.

A neice, Mrs. Fred M. Moore of Topeka, Kan., says the four get up at 5 a. m., daily and work each morning before resting in the afternoon. They take care of 100 chickens, raise a garden, milk and churn, crochet, grow flowers, quilt, watch television and read avidly, Mrs. Moore says.

However, they have a farmer hired to put in crops and care for the livestock.

The farm was purchased by their parents 82 years ago.

Newspaper want ads are a big sell! Eight hundred million was spent on classified ads last year . . .more than for all television spot announcements or radio advertising.

Children Are First Concern Of All Mothers

EAST LANSING — What troubles you most?

"Children" were named most frequently as the "number one" answer to this question in a recent Michigan State University study of 413 Michigan mothers.

Young mothers tended to be most concerned about their children's health, while older mothers expressed greatest worry about their youngsters' education.

The study was conducted for the MSU Cooperative Extension Service home economics-family living education program by Carl J. Couch, Mason E. Miller and James P. Bebermeyer.

The researchers interviewed women in Antrim, Lapeer and Livingston counties and the city and suburbs of Pontiac. They worked wth two groups: young mothers, mostly 21-30 years old, whose oldest child was not more than three, and older mothers whose youngest child was 19. The older women were generally 41 to 55 years of age.

All Alike

"The younger women had mostly just entered their primary roles of mother, wife and housekeeper," the researchers explained. "They would be expected to have different kinds of concerns than the older women who are experienced in these three roles but now find their roles changing as their children leave home."

There was little difference between the two samples in areas of concern. Sixty per cent of the mothers named "children" as first or second major concern. Concern with "self" was named next most frequently. "Husbands" were named third most often.

The mothers expressed little concern with meal planning and preparation or buying for home and family. Only a small minority expressed concerns over husband-wife relations.

When health was named as a concern, younger homemakers mentioned the health of children most frequently while older women were concerned with their own health of their husbands' health.

Few women expressed any concern with events or people outside the family.

These women turned most often to professional sources—such as doctors as teachers—for help with problems with children and husbands. For information on food, they went most frequently to mass media, such as newspapers, or to specialized media, such as cookbooks.

Holiday Tradition

PLUM PUDDING from your own kitchen is perfect for Thanksgiving or Christmas and it can be prepared ahead.

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

New England families often serve plum pudding, along with the traditional pies for Thanksgiving dinner.

If this custom appeals to you, we urge you to try our favorite modern recipe for a steamed pudding of this kind. To us, this pudding is more appealing than the old-time English-type plum pudding because it's lighter in texture and flavor. Try this recipe and see if you don't agree.

You can make this pudding ahead, remove it from its mold, wrap it appropriately and freezer-store. When you're ready to serve the dessert—whether this is to be at Thanksgiving or Christmas—upwrap it, turn it back into its original mold, defrost and resteam for about an hour.

Holiday Pudding

½ cup unsulphured molasses
½ cup orange juice
1 cup seedless raisins
1 cup (one 8-ounce jar or package) diced mixed candied fruit and peels
1 large apple, pared and chopped (1 cup)
1 tablespoon grated orange rind
2 eggs
½ cup ground suet, packed down
¾ cup fine dry bread crumbs
1 cup coarsely chopped nuts
½ cup sifted flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon baking soda
¼ cup sugar
½ teaspoon each salt and cinnamon
¼ teaspoon each allspice and cloves

In a small bowl stir together the molasses and orange juice; stir in the raisins, candied fruit, apple and orange rind; let stand 1 hour. In a large mixing bowl beat the eggs enough to combine yolks and whites; mix in suet, bread crumbs and nuts. Sift in together the flour, baking powder, baking soda, sugar, salt, cinnamon, allspice and cloves; mix well. Add fruit mixture; mix well. Turn into a greased 2-quart pudding mold with tight-fitting cover, or cover with aluminum foil and tie securely with string. Place on rack in deep kettle; pour in boiling water to half the depth of the mold. Cover; steam 5 hours, adding more boiling water during steaming if necessary. Serve warm with Hard Sauce. Makes 12 servings.

Black Drapes State Capitol

By The Associated Press

Michigan residents crowded churches and cathedrals today in remembrance of John F. Kennedy.

Many left key state and local offices virtually unmanned to pray for the late President and seek comfort for President Kennedy's family.

Thousands went to church directly from assembly line jobs as the state's major automobile manufacturers shut down operations.

Lansing residents entered churches as Michigan National Guardsmen began firing a solemn 21-gun cannon salute to the late President.

Black drapes masked the face of the Capitol Building at Lansing for a 30-day mourning period proclaimed by Gov. George Romney. It will last until sundown, Dec. 22.

The official mourning ceremony was echoed in cities, villages and hamlets across the state.

Those of Mr. Kennedy's faith heard the Catholic "Prayer of the People," said in the requiem masses across Michigan as he was being buried in Washington. "Deliver him not into the hands of the enemy, and forget him not forever, but command the holy angels to receive him and lead him to our home in Paradise. ." the ancient prayer said.

The Episcopal Bishop of Michigan proposed a lasting memorial to Mr. Kennedy: Let us work for a "just and good civil rights bill," the Rt. Rev. Richard S. Emrich asked worshippers at the Detroit Cathedral Church of St. Paul.

Rabbi Harry Essrig of Grand Rapids pleaded for all citizens "to rededicate ourselves to the fulfillment of his dream. In this way we will atone for the unspeakable crime that has cut down the promise he held for our nation."

The solemn color guards of all military and veterans organizations held processionals. They filled the Veteran Memorial Park at Grand Rapids and other cities.

Dry Suggests Mob Warning

KALAMAZOO (AP) — The executive chairman of the Prohibition Party's national committee sent a telegram to President Lyndon Johnson Sunday suggesting the multiple slayings in Dallas may be a warning for Attorney General Robert Kennedy to "lay off" his investigation of organized crime.

"Could the events of Friday and this afternoon be a warning to Attorney General Kennedy to lay off his investigation of organized crime and corruption in the United States?"

The telegram, Dr. Gibbons said, was addressed to the "Honorable President Johnson, The White House, Washington, D.C.

It went on to say: "The recent exposures of the Mafia or Cosa Nostra no doubt had an embarrassing affect upon its leaders and the death of our President could be their method of getting even and a warning to brother Robert to take the heat off."

At Least Two Teams Will Lose This Week

Early showdowns in the big Great Lakes Conference feature the Thanksgiving week basketball menu in the Upper Peninsula.

At least two more teams will enter the ranks of the once-beaten quintets in games that send Marquette Graveraet to Sault Ste. Marie, Newberry to Negaunee, Gladstone to Manistique, Munising to Ishpeming and Escanaba to Munising. Two league members also play exhibition contests, Stephenson hosting Holy Name and Ishpeming traveling to Iron Mountain.

Marquette, Sault, Newberry and Negaunee are unbeaten, with the Marquette Redmen pacing the conference race with two victories. The Marquette-Sault clash will be another collision of hardcourt giants, both putting teams on the floor that average well over 6 feet in height.

Another early-season showdown is due in the Copper Country, where unbeaten Lake Linden and Baraga meet Tuesday in the Vikings' bailwick.

Both of the twice-victorious Copper Country teams are on the way up after rebuilding seasons last winter. Baraga followed up its opening victory over Dollar Bay with a surprise triumph over Calumet, while Lake Linden opened with an eyebrow-raising 49-48 decision against champion Ontonagon, then downed L'Anse by a 15-point margin.

Other Copper Country games slated for Tuesday night find Painesdale at Hancock, L'Anse at Ontonagon and Calumet at Dollar Bay.

The rampaging Eben Eagles host Trenary in a Central U.P. League headliner the same night, while the high-flying Negaunee St. Paul Emeralds, with two Mid-Peninsula Conference scalps dangling from their belts, head for Rapid River and an exhibition test Friday.

Marquette Bishop Baraga, going to the Copper County for a second time to face Houghton Wednesday, will be back home Friday for a homecoming affair with old-rival Gwinn. Also featured Friday night will be a Menominee Range Conference clash between Norway and Crystal Falls.

Here's the week's schedule:

Cardinals Defeat Giants To Cause Three-Way Tie

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

The St. Louis Cardinals, a bounce-back bunch trying to prove that youth must be served, have thrown the National Football League's Eastern Conference title scramble into a triple tie with only three games remaining.

Led by the passing of quarterback Charley Johnson and a quartet of defensive specialists with only 10 years of pro experience between them—Larry Wilson, Garland Boyette, Sam Silas and Joe Robb—the Cardinals whipped the New York Giants 24-17 Sunday.

Three weeks ago, New York quarterback Y. A. Tittle passed for four touchdowns and the Giant defense forced the Cardinals to give up the ball four times on interceptions and three times on fumbles. The result was a 38-21 victory over St. Louis.

It was a completely opposite story this time.

Tittle, who had only four passes intercepted in 10 previous games, watched Wilson steal two. Boyette pounced on a fumble that led to the Cardinals' clinching touchdown. And Robb and Silas smashed Tittle to the ground twice in the last two minutes as he brought the Giants within striking distance of the tying touchdown.

The triumph catapulted the Cardinals into a first-place tie with the Giants and Cleveland Browns, who defeated Dallas 27-17. All three teams have 8-3 records. The Browns will be at St. Louis this Sunday while New York is at Dallas.

Pittsburgh's Steelers remained in contention in the East, boosting their record to 6-3-2 by battling the Western Divison-leading Chicago Bears to a 17-17 tie. The Bears now are 9-1-1 to 9-2 for the Green Bay Packers, 28-10 conquerors of San Francisco.

In other games, Los Angeles knocked off Baltimore 17-16 on a third period field goal by Danny Villanueva, Tommy Mason cracked over for the winning touchdown in the fourth quarter as Minnesota defeated Detroit 34-31 and Washington edged Philadelphia 13-10.

The seven-game NFL program went on as scheduled, only two days after the assassination of President Kennedy, despite protests from some quarters. The crowds were sombre, but attendances were not affected.

The American Football League postponed its four-game program.

Royals Beat Hawks Quint

CINCINNATI (AP) — A blazing first half by Oscar Robertson and Jerry Lucas and sharpshooting by Adrian Smith and Wayne Embry in the seond carried the Cincinnati Royals to a 122-113 victory over the St. Louis Hawks in Sunday night's only National Basketball Association game.

The "Big O" hit at a 100 per cent clip in the opening period—five shots for five goals. In the second quarter, Lucas scored nine points in 2 minutes, 35 seconds.

Sunday's only other scheduled meeting, Boston at Detroit, was postponed out of respect for the death of President Kennedy.

The Royals and Hawks paid tribute to the assassinated President by saying a one-minute silent prayer before the start of the game.

Two games were played and two others postponed Saturday. The New York Knickerbockers whipped Detroit, 108-99, and St. Louis downed Cincinnati, 133-121. Philadelphia at Boston and San Francisco at Los Angeles were both postponed.

Stands Filled But Fans Sombre At Grid Games

By The Associated Press

The crowds were sombre. But the stands were filled.

That was Sunday, some 48 hours after the assassination of President Kennedy, as the National Football League staged its seven-game program on schedule despite vigorous verbal protests from some quarters and players openly shaken by tragedy.

"I cried when I heard Mr. Kennedy had been killed," said San Francisco tackle Bob St. Clair. "I didn't really want to play," said Washington receiver Bobby Mitchell. "I guess I feel like everyone else. I've lost a brother."

But after memorial ceremonies were conducted before the games at the seven cities, St. Clair and Mitchell and some 500 other NFL players took the field. The stands were filled, with few exceptions.

At Pittsburgh, the Steelers played to a 17-17 tie with the Chicago Bears before the biggest crowd of the season at Forbes Field, 36,465. And, at Los Angeles, where the Rams edged Baltimore 17-16, a crowd of 48,555 was on hand, largest since opening day.

Elsewhere, there were some seats left vacant by ticketholders who stayed home, and club spokesmen said refunds would be made to those who had bought tickets but did not attend the games. But there will be few refunds.

A sellout crowd of 62,992 was in New York's Yankee Stadium as St. Louis defeated the Giants 24-17, a sellout of 45,905 at Milwaukee saw Green Bay beat San Francisco 28-10 and 55,096 were at Cleveland as the Browns defeated Dallas 27-17.

At Minneapolis - St. Paul, where 20,000 copies of the Star Spangled Banner were distributed to fans, a crowd of 28,763 witnessed the Vikings' 34-31 victory over Detroit. And the last 1,500 tickets were sold just before game time at Philadelphia, where 60,671 saw Washington's 13-10 victory over the Eagles.

Redskins' Coach Bill McPeak said the team will send the game ball to the White House as a symbol of the deep feeling the Washington players felt for the late President Kennedy.

"I don't want to be morbid or corny," said McPeak, "but I really feel our gang was playing today for President Kennedy and in his memory.

"We were very surprised that Commissioner Pete Rozelle decided to have the game played. We at first thought it a bad idea. But then we were told we were to play, so we decided that this is the way President Kennedy would have wanted it."

Rozelle reaffirmed his decision to go ahead with the schedule at the same time the American Football League postponed its four-game program.

"Everyone has a different way of paying respects," he said. "I went to church and I imagine many of the people at the games did too. I cannot feel that playing the games was disrespectful."

The players had mixed reactions.

Giants' linebacker Sam Huff had this to say:

"I feel depressed. I feel as bad about it as anybody. But staying home and moping around wouldn't do any good.

"That is our life. The people who don't like it, that's their right.

"Maybe that's what the President died for."

Ford Mound Coach; Now It's Official

NEW YORK (NEA) — So what's so surprising about Eddie Ford being named coach of the New York Kankees pitchers?

Whitey Ford has been putting himself in and taking himself out games for several seasons. Teammates for a decade have called Ford chairman of the pitching board. By now he ought to know when to put another pitcher in and take him out.

Ford has been kicked upstairs while still active. The first thought is that the older combatants who cintributed so generously to the Bombers' sustained success have taken over under general manager Ralph Houk. First it was Yogi Berra, the certain Hall of Fame catcher, named manager. Now Ford, the certain Hall of Fame pitcher, is a coach.

Ford's appointment also is something in the nature of an economy move. Even the affluent Yankees weren't averse to shaving here and there. Johnny Sain probably drew $20,000 a year as a pitching coach. Ford perhap was paid twice that as the winningest pitcher in major league history. The left-hander reportedly gets a $5,000 boost for his additional duties, so the club saves $15,000.

The naming of Ford as a coach is made more newsworthy because it is a departure from the norm. Never before has an active pitcher been given the supervision of a staff, most certainly not an artist like Ford. Whitey just turned 35. He led the American League last season with 24 victories while losing only 7 games. His earned-run average was 2.74.

Some see the selection of Ford as a coach as insurance in the event that Berra doesn't manager quite as well as he caught and hit the ball in the late innings. Ford emphatically says he has no managerial aspirations. Whitey says he is delighted to obtain an early start at what he want to do when he can no longer get batters out.

Ford, loafing the off-season away at his Lake Success home, says he plans to work every fourth day as usual. He hopes to get in 38 starts in 1964. Another season like the last three and the greatest asset to coach Ford would be pitcher Ford.

No one every had more pitches or knew more about the art of pitching than Ford. The other pitchers already know that all they have to do is to watch and try to emulate the boss. Eddie has their respect and admiration off the field as well as on it. In the family he probably is the most popular Yankee. He should be able to help youngsters and pick any flaws that might pop up in the older pitchers.

When Sain wanted more money for leaving his automobile, truck and farm implement agency at Walnut Ridge, Ark., it was Berra who suggested Ford to Houk.

Yogi Berra didn't catch Whitey Ford a dozen years for nothing.

Army-Navy Contest Is Still In Doubt

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Most of the nation's major colleges, stunned and shocked by the death of the President, have delayed until this weekend their football day of decision.

Only two teams, Texas and Nebraska, have nailed down major bowl berths and only Nebraska accomplished it last weekend. Still to be decided are both teams in the Rose and Sugar bowls, and the visiting teams in Orange and Cotton bowls.

Most were scheduled for settlement last weekend, but were postponed because of the assassination of President Kennedy.

The traditional clash between Army and Navy, scheduled in Philadelphia Saturday, still is in doubt. Officials of both service institutions have expressed a desire to play, however, so the chances of cancellation appear to be remote.

Navy, ranked second at 8-1 and possessing the season's most highly publicized player in quarterback Roger Staubach, is a solid favorite to make it five in a row over Army, 7-2.

The Middies are considered prime candidates for the Cotton Bowl, to oppose top-ranked Texas. The Longhorns, the nation's only major unbeaten, untied team at 9-0, already have clinched the host spot in the Cotton Bowl. They close the regular season against old foe Texas A&M, 2-6-1.

Nebraska won the Big Eight title, its first in 23 years, and clinched the Orange Bowl spot in one of the few games played Saturday. The 10th - ranked Huskers rolled over No. 6 Oklahoma 29-20.

The only other member of the top ten in action was No. 9 Auburn, which advanced its record to 8-1 with a 21-15 victory over Florida State. Auburn plays seventh-ranked Alabama at Tuscaloosa Saturday, with both considered leading candidates for a major bowl berth.

Games in East Lansing, Mich. Los Angeles and Seattle, all postponed from last Saturday, will determine the Rose Bowl opponents.

Michigan State, ranked fourth, and Illinois, ranked eighth, play at East Lansing Thursday. Each has a 6-1-1 record. The winner gets the Big Ten title and the visiting spot in the Rose Bowl.

The host role will be determined Saturday in the Washington-Washington State and Southern California-UCLA games. A victory for Washington probably would clinch it, with a loss throwing the spot to Southern Cal, providing the Trojans beat UCLA.

The Sugar Bowl is still wide open. Chief contenders appear to be Auburn, Alabama, Mississippi, and Pitt.

Starr Returns To Guide Pack To 28-10 Win

MILWAUKEE — The Green Bay Packers celebrated quarterback Bart Starr's return to action here Sunday with a 28-10 victory over the San Francisco 49ers before a crowd of 45,905 sombre fans.

The victory was Green Bay's ninth against two defeats in National Football League action this season. The Packers trail the Chicago Bears by a half-game in the standings.

The Packers scored four touchdowns in the first half, three of them in the second quarter, and took a 28-3 lead at the intermission.

With Starr at quarterback, Green Bay marched 83 yards in 12 plays, 82 yards in nine plays, 67 yards in seven plays and 27 yards in four plays.

Starr passed 11 yards to Dowler for the first score. Pitts passed 21 yards to Ran Kramer for the second, Taylor ran 34 yards for the third and Pitts ran 14 yards for the fourth. Eash time, Jerry Kramer converted.

On the first touchdown, Dowler caught Starr's pass as he ran into the goal post. On the second, Ron Kramer ran over Dowdle and Woodson. Taylor and Pitts made their runs on third down with one yard to go.

Between the Packers' second and third touchdowns, the 49ers captilized on Alexander's 38 yard kick-off return to Green Bay's 42, from where Davis kicked a 32 yard field goal.

The Packers outgained the 49ers in the first half from scrimmage 286 yards to 64.

The 49ers reached the Green Bay 22 early in the third quarter. They were going for the yard on fourth down, but Knafelc jumped offside and cost them a five yard penalty. Then McHan's pass to Casey was broken up by Gremminger.

Next, the 49ers faked a punt and Davis tried a pass to Lind, but overthrew him. The Packers took over on San Francisco's 41, but got no points when Jerry Kramer's 25 yard field goal attempt didn't even clear the line of scrimmage.

Early in the fourth period, the 49ers reached Green Bay's seven. With fourth down and goal to go, they turned down their third field goal chance. McHan passed to Perry, who dropped the ball in the clear on the left side.

In the last minute, Norton, back to punt from Green Bay's end zone, decided to run and was tackled on Green Bay's 11 yard line. McHan then passed to McFarland for San Francisco's touchdown. Davis converted.

Black Hawks Spread Lead

By The Associated Press

The Chicago Black Hawks are turning the National Hockey League race into a runaway.

The Hawks raced off to a 6-0 lead after only seven minutes of the second period, and coasted home 7-3 Sunday night over the Montreal Canadiens.

The Toronto Maple Leafs and the New York Rangers played to a 3-3 tie in the other game.

The Detroit-Boston game at Boston was postponed because of the assassination of President Kennedy. The Bruins played Toronto Saturday night at Toronto, with the Leafs winning 4-1.

The Black Hawks, who led the NHL most of last season but faded to second in the final days, now hold a nine point lead over second place Toronto. The Canadiens are another point back in third.

Iowa Contest Is Cancelled

CHICAGO (AP) — Illinois and Michigan State will meet at East Lansing Thanksgiving Day to settle the Big Ten football championship and Rose Bowl bid.

The game, along with the rest of the conference slate, was called off Saturday because of the assassination of President Kennedy.

Except for the Notre Dame at Iowa game, all the other contests were rescheduled. Since Notre Dame plays Syracuse Thursday, the Iowa game was cancelled.

Along with the Illinois-Michigate State game, Wisconsin will be at Minnesota Thanksgiving Day. The Ohio State at Michigan and Purdue at Indiana games will beplayed Saturday.

What affect the postponement of the Illinois-Michigan State game will have is not known. Although both teams were in top condition, the delay will give the players nursing minor injuries a chance to recover completely.

Illinois must win to capture the title and Rose Bowl bid. Michigan State can achieve both ends even with a tie since the Spartans take a 4-0-1 record into the conetst compared to Illinois, 4-1-1 conference mark.

At Least Two Teams Will Lose This Week

Early showdowns in the big Great Lakes Conference feature the Thanksgiving week basketball menu in the Upper Peninsula.

At least two more teams will enter the ranks of the once-beaten quintets in games that send Marquette Graveraet to Sault Ste. Marie, Newberry to Negaunee, Gladstone to Manistique, Munising to Ishpeming and Escanaba to Munising. Two league members also play exhibition contests, Stephenson hosting Holy Name and Ishpeming traveling to Iron Mountain.

Marquette, Sault, Newberry and Negaunee are unbeaten, with the Marquette Redmen pacing the conference race with two victories. The Marquette-Sault clash will be another collision of hardcourt giants, both putting teams on the floor that average well over 6 feet in height.

Another early-season showdown is due in the Copper Country, where unbeaten Lake Linden and Baraga meet Tuesday in the Vikings' bailwick.

Both of the twice-victorious Copper Country teams are on the way up after rebuilding seasons last winter. Baraga followed up its opening victory over Dollar Bay with a surprise triumph over Calumet, while Lake Linden opened with an eyebrow-raising 49-48 decision against champion Ontonagon, then downed L'Anse by a 15-point margin.

Other Copper Country games slated for Tuesday night find Painesdale at Hancock, L'Anse at Ontonagon and Calumet at Dollar Bay.

The rampaging Eben Eagles host Trenary in a Central U.P. League headliner the same night, while the high-flying Negaunee St. Paul Emeralds, with two Mid-Peninsula Conference scalps dangling from their belts, head for Rapid River and an exhibition test Friday.

Marquette Bishop Baraga, going to the Copper County for a second time to face Houghton Wednesday, will be back home Friday for a homecoming affair with old-rival Gwinn. Also featured Friday night will be a Menominee Range Conference clash between Norway and Crystal Falls.

Cardinals Defeat Giants To Cause Three-Way Tie

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

The St. Louis Cardinals, a bounce-back bunch trying to prove that youth must be served, have thrown the National Football League's Eastern Conference title scramble into a triple tie with only three games remaining.

Led by the passing of quarterback Charley Johnson and a quartet of defensive specialists with only 10 years of pro experience between them—Larry Wilson, Garland Boyette, Sam Silas and Joe Robb—the Cardinals whipped the New York Giants 24-17 Sunday.

Three weeks ago, New York quarterback Y. A. Tittle passed for four touchdowns and the Giant defense forced the Cardinals to give up the ball four times on interceptions and three times on fumbles. The result was a 38-21 victory over St. Louis.

It was a completely opposite story this time.

Tittle, who had only four passes intercepted in 10 previous games, watched Wilson steal two. Boyette pounced on a fumble that led to the Cardinals' clinching touchdown. And Robb and Silas smashed Tittle to the ground twice in the last two minutes as he brought the Giants within striking distance of the tying touchdown.

The triumph catapulted the Cardinals into a first-place tie with the Giants and Cleveland Browns, who defeated Dallas 27-17. All three teams have 8-3 records. The Browns will be at St. Louis this Sunday while New York is at Dallas.

Pittsburgh's Steelers remained in contention in the East, boosting their record to 6-3-2 by battling the Western Divison-leading Chicago Bears to a 17-17 tie. The Bears now are 9-1-1 to 9-2 for the Green Bay Packers, 28-10 conquerors of San Francisco.

In other games, Los Angeles knocked off Baltimore 17-16 on a third period field goal by Danny Villanueva, Tommy Mason cracked over for the winning touchdown in the fourth quarter as Minnesota defeated Detroit 34-31 and Washington edged Philadelphia 13-10.

The seven-game NFL program went on as scheduled, only two days after the assassination of President Kennedy, despite protests from some quarters. The crowds were sombre, but attendances were not affected.

The American Football League postponed its four-game program.

Royals Beat Hawks Quint

CINCINNATI (AP) — A blazing first half by Oscar Robertson and Jerry Lucas and sharpshooting by Adrian Smith and Wayne Embry in the seond carried the Cincinnati Royals to a 122-113 victory over the St. Louis Hawks in Sunday night's only National Basketball Association game.

The "Big O" hit at a 100 per cent clip in the opening period—five shots for five goals. In the second quarter, Lucas scored nine points in 2 minutes, 35 seconds.

Sunday's only other scheduled meeting, Boston at Detroit, was postponed out of respect for the death of President Kennedy.

The Royals and Hawks paid tribute to the assassinated President by saying a one-minute silent prayer before the start of the game.

Two games were played and two others postponed Saturday. The New York Knickerbockers whipped Detroit, 108-99, and St. Louis downed Cincinnati, 133-121. Philadelphia at Boston and San Francisco at Los Angeles were both postponed.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Northern Illinois' outstanding quarterback, George Bork, today was named to play for the North in the annual Shrine North-South College All-Star charity football game.

CHICAGO (AP)—Play in the seventh annual World's Invitational Bowling Tournament, the third scheduled day of the $48,000 marathon event, was suspended today in observance of President Kennedy's burial.

LAYFAYETTE, La (AP) — Golfer John Barnum of Grand Rapids, Mich., won $775 Sunday for his ninth place finish in the $20,000 Cajun Classic Golf tournament.

Black Hawks Spread Lead

By The Associated Press

The Chicago Black Hawks are turning the National Hockey League race into a runaway.

The Hawks raced off to a 6-0 lead after only seven minutes of the second period, and coasted home 7-3 Sunday night over the Montreal Canadiens.

The Toronto Maple Leafs and the New York Rangers played to a 3-3 tie in the other game.

The Detroit-Boston game at Boston was postponed because of the assassination of President Kennedy. The Bruins played Toronto Saturday night at Toronto, with the Leafs winning 4-1.

The Black Hawks, who led the NHL most of last season but faded to second in the final days, now hold a nine point lead over second place Toronto. The Canadiens are another point back in third.

Iowa Contest Is Cancelled

CHICAGO (AP) — Illinois and Michigan State will meet at East Lansing Thanksgiving Day to settle the Big Ten football championship and Rose Bowl bid.

The game, along with the rest of the conference slate, was called off Saturday because of the assassination of President Kennedy.

Except for the Notre Dame at Iowa game, all the other contests were rescheduled. Since Notre Dame plays Syracuse Thursday, the Iowa game was cancelled.

Along with the Illinois-Michigate State game, Wisconsin will be at Minnesota Thanksgiving Day. The Ohio State at Michigan and Purdue at Indiana games will beplayed Saturday.

What affect the postponement of the Illinois-Michigan State game will have is not known. Although both teams were in top condition, the delay will give the players nursing minor injuries a chance to recover completely.

Illinois must win to capture the title and Rose Bowl bid. Michigan State can achieve both ends even with a tie since the Spartans take a 4-0-1 record into the conetst compared to Illinois, 4-1-1 conference mark.

Army-Navy Contest Is Still In Doubt

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Most of the nation's major colleges, stunned and shocked by the death of the President, have delayed until this weekend their football day of decision.

Only two teams, Texas and Nebraska, have nailed down major bowl berths and only Nebraska accomplished it last weekend. Still to be decided are both teams in the Rose and Sugar bowls, and the visiting teams in Orange and Cotton bowls.

Most were scheduled for settlement last weekend, but were postponed because of the assassination of President Kennedy.

The traditional clash between Army and Navy, scheduled in Philadelphia Saturday, still is in doubt. Officials of both service institutions have expressed a desire to play, however, so the chances of cancellation appear to be remote.

Navy, ranked second at 8-1 and possessing the season's most highly publicized player in quarterback Roger Staubach, is a solid favorite to make it five in a row over Army, 7-2.

The Middies are considered prime candidates for the Cotton Bowl, to oppose top-ranked Texas. The Longhorns, the nation's only major unbeaten, untied team at 9-0, already have clinched the host spot in the Cotton Bowl. They close the regular season against old foe Texas A&M, 2-6-1.

Nebraska won the Big Eight title, its first in 23 years, and clinched the Orange Bowl spot in one of the few games played Saturday. The 10th - ranked Huskers rolled over No. 6 Oklahoma 29-20.

The only other member of the top ten in action was No. 9 Auburn, which advanced its record to 8-1 with a 21-15 victory over Florida State. Auburn plays seventh-ranked Alabama at Tuscaloosa Saturday, with both considered leading candidates for a major bowl berth.

Games in East Lansing, Mich. Los Angeles and Seattle, all postponed from last Saturday, will determine the Rose Bowl opponents.

Michigan State, ranked fourth, and Illinois, ranked eighth, play at East Lansing Thursday. Each has a 6-1-1 record. The winner gets the Big Ten title and the visiting spot in the Rose Bowl.

The host role will be determined Saturday in the Washington-Washington State and Southern California-UCLA games. A victory for Washington probably would clinch it, with a loss throwing the spot to Southern Cal, providing the Trojans beat UCLA.

The Sugar Bowl is still wide open. Chief contenders appear to be Auburn, Alabama, Mississippi, and Pitt.

At left is Sherm Lewis, named "Back of the Week" by The Associated Press for his two-touchdown performance against Notre Dame Nov. 16. Spartan Title Game Reslated Thrusday

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — It was back to the practice field again today for the Michigan State football team, with the Big Ten football title and the Rose Bowl contender still to be decided.

The coaches have the job now of trying to build the Spartans up to a peak of efficiency again for the showdown Thursday with Illinois.

The conference decider was rescheduled at the last hour Saturday for 1:30 p. m. (EST) on Thursday. Protests about plans to play and wholesale cancellations of other football games prompted the decision to switch dates.

Today's workout will be held in the late afternoon, following the last rites for President Kennedy.

Coach Duffy Daugherty said both teams were frustrated by the off again, on again delay.

The MSU squad let off steam Saturday with a brisk workout at the indoor baseball diamond. The Illinois team, leaving its uniforms and most of its gear behind, flew back to Champaign.

The Illini will return to East Lansing again Wednesday afternoon.

The postponement is sure ot hurt attendance. Nearly 1,000 tickets were turned in for refund Saturday, mostly by Illinois fans. The conference climax originally was expected to draw a 76,000 sellout. The MSU team banquet, originally scheduled for tonight, has been postponed until next Monday. The most valuable player award and the election of next year's captains will be announced at the dinner.

The delay will give more time to MSU for the healing of such injuries as an ankle twist suffered by center Don Ross, a knee bruise bothering Mike Currie and dislocated finger picked up by punter Lou Bobich.

The Spartans can take the title and the bowl bid with a tie or a victory.

Michigan State is 4-0-1 in conference play and Illinois has a 4-1-1 league record.

No Sports Event Will Be Staged In Nation Today

By The Associated Press

Most sports events were postponed over the weekend, in memory of President Kennedy. No sports contests will be held today.

A few weekend events went on as scheduled, including seven games in the National Football League Sunday. Almost all college football games were put off. The American Football League postponed its four-game card.

In stadiums where games were played, crowds for the most part were unusually subdued but they were as thick as ever.

There was no television.

Feelings ran high on the question of cancellation in some places. The NFL received a number of telephone calls from people who thought the games should not have been played.

Two players on the Philadelphia Eagles fought each other into the hospital in a dispute over whether the game with the Washington Redskins should go on. Coach Nick Skorich suspended the participants, Ben Scotti and John Mellekas.

The cancellation pattern was spotty, and seemed largely a matter of individual taste.

Harvard, the late President's alma mater, and Yale moved promptly to postpone their Saturday game for one week. Dozens of other schools followed suit.

Only 34 major and minor college football games were played Friday night and Saturday, 21 in the South, six in the Southwest, five in the Midwest and two in the Far West.

All Eastern games were postponed, as were those in the Big Ten and the Far West Big Six.

Most of the games were rescheduled for later dates, although a few were canceled.

Most race tracks stopped their programs Friday when news of the assassination came, and stayed dark Saturday. Only Pimlico ran a program Saturday.

All racing will be shut down today, and some tracks will not resume until Wednesday.

The third round of the Cajun golf tournament at Lafayette, La., Saturday was postponed. Two rounds were played Sunday. The winner, Rex Baxter Jr., said, "We played unnoticed today."

Most professional basketball and some professional hockey games were postponed.

Tigers Boost Night Schedule

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Tigers will attempt to lure more paying customers through the turnstiles next year by playing more night games.

The 1964 schedule, announced by Vice President General Manager James Campbell Saturday, includes 30 night games and 12 doubleheaders.

The 30 night contests are six more than the Tigers have ever played in one season since the lights were installed in 1948. The twin-bills are three more than the team scheduled last season.

The Tigers will be home on two holidays, Memorial Day and the Fourth of July, with Chicago and Washington providing the opposition. Each holiday series will consist of a Friday night game, a Saturday contest and a Sunday doubleheader.

Detroit opens the season against Kansas City at Tiger Stadium April 14.

Tennis Star Suffers Loss

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) —The United States will send its big Davis Cup 1-2 punch—Chuck McKinley and Dennis Ralston—into the Victorian Tennis Championships starting Thursday at the Kooyong Club.

McKinley is returning to action after being sidelined by a recurring back ailment which struck him recently in the New South Wales Tournament at Sydney.

Ralston, 20, from Bakersfield, Calif., won the New South Wales tourney and went to the finals of the South Australian Championships before losing to John Newcombe, 19-year-old Australian junior titleholder.

Ralston, who said he was saddened by the death of President Kennedy, merely went through the motions in the final match, losing 6-1, 6-3, 15-17, 6-1. It was his first singles defeat in Australia.

"I couldn't help thinking about the assassination all the time I was on the court," he said. Then he added: "John played terrific tennis—he probably would have beaten me, anyhow."

The American ace was reluctant to play but did so when he was told by William Battle, U.S. ambassador to Australia, that the late President Kennedy would have wished him to do so.

Nixon May Get Second Chance

By JACK BELL
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The possibility that Republicans may give former Vice President Richard M. Nixon a second crack at the presidency appeared to be growing today.

The assassination of John F. Kennedy and the ascension of Lyndon B. Johnson to the office has forced a radical reassessment by GOP strategists of the 1964 campaign.

Where once they conceded privately they had only an uphill chance of defeating Kennedy's bid for a second term, they now fell the odds are nearly even they may be able to deny Johnson a first elective term.

For a race with Kennedy, many wanted to gamble of the theory that a conservative like Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., could defeat a Democratic liberal.

Now the Republican candidate is likely to face a Democrat identified in the public mind as a Southern conservative. For this is how Johnson is viewed by many, despite the support he has given as vice president to the Kennedy legislative program and his efforts to shed the tage of sectionalism.

Nevertheless, the Republicans perceive a broad avenue leading toward the nomination of a man who can try to out-Johnson Johnson in being for positive action on civil rights and for prudent social welfare programs without having to bear the party umbrage of being a "me-too" candidate.

The Republican who ordinarily would fit this description is Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York. But to get his party's nomination, Rockefeller will have to overcome the political liability of divorcing his wife of 35 years and marrying a divorced mother of four children.

If Rockefeller cannot surmount this political barrier—and many liberal Republicans are indicating by searching frantically elsewhere for a champion that they think he cannot—Nixon may prove to be their only refuge.

Baxter Wins Cajun Classic

LAFAYETTE, La. (AP)—Rex Baxter Jr. compiled a brilliant record as an amateur, but in pro golf ranks he was frustrated until Sunday.

One of Baxter's biggest problems has been bad finishes but Sunday he fashioned back-to-back 68s to win the $20,000 Cajun Classic.

The victory in the marathon 36-hole windup broke the ice for Baxter, whose best previous finish was second in the Waco Turner Tourney in 1961.

He had rounds of 68-71-68-68—275 over the 6-555-yard Oakburne Country Club layout.

Young Jack Rule Jr., the former University of Iowa swinger, who had had a two-stroke margin after the first 18 holes, had to settle for a tie for third place with Tommy Aaron at 278 as Bob Shave Jr. moved into second at 277 two strokes behind Baxter.

A Daily Press want ad can do a big job for you.

Sports In Brief

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Red Wings defenseman Pete Goegan has been waived to the club's Pittsburgh farm club. Goegan had been replaced on the roster last week by Ian Cushenan, up from Pittsburgh.

CLEVELAND (AP) — — Six Michigan skaters are among 28 candidates for the U.S. Olumpic figure skating team. Named by the U.S. Figure Skating Association were Gary Visconti, Tim Wood and Myrna Bodek of Detroit, Joanne Heckert and Gary Clark of East Lansing and Peter Kollen of Ann Arbor.

THREE MICHIGAN STATE football standouts admire a picture of the 1956 Spartan team that won the Rose Bowl. At left is Sherm Lewis, named "Back of the Week" by The Associated Press for his two-touchdown performance against Notre Dame Nov. 16. Spartan Title Game Reslated Thrusday

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — It was back to the practice field again today for the Michigan State football team, with the Big Ten football title and the Rose Bowl contender still to be decided.

The coaches have the job now of trying to build the Spartans up to a peak of efficiency again for the showdown Thursday with Illinois.

The conference decider was rescheduled at the last hour Saturday for 1:30 p. m. (EST) on Thursday. Protests about plans to play and wholesale cancellations of other football games prompted the decision to switch dates.

Today's workout will be held in the late afternoon, following the last rites for President Kennedy.

Coach Duffy Daugherty said both teams were frustrated by the off again, on again delay.

The MSU squad let off steam Saturday with a brisk workout at the indoor baseball diamond. The Illinois team, leaving its uniforms and most of its gear behind, flew back to Champaign.

The Illini will return to East Lansing again Wednesday afternoon.

The postponement is sure ot hurt attendance. Nearly 1,000 tickets were turned in for refund Saturday, mostly by Illinois fans. The conference climax originally was expected to draw a 76,000 sellout. The MSU team banquet, originally scheduled for tonight, has been postponed until next Monday. The most valuable player award and the election of next year's captains will be announced at the dinner.

The delay will give more time to MSU for the healing of such injuries as an ankle twist suffered by center Don Ross, a knee bruise bothering Mike Currie and dislocated finger picked up by punter Lou Bobich.

The Spartans can take the title and the bowl bid with a tie or a victory.

Michigan State is 4-0-1 in conference play and Illinois has a 4-1-1 league record.

No Sports Event Will Be Staged In Nation Today

By The Associated Press

Most sports events were postponed over the weekend, in memory of President Kennedy. No sports contests will be held today.

A few weekend events went on as scheduled, including seven games in the National Football League Sunday. Almost all college football games were put off. The American Football League postponed its four-game card.

In stadiums where games were played, crowds for the most part were unusually subdued but they were as thick as ever.

There was no television.

Feelings ran high on the question of cancellation in some places. The NFL received a number of telephone calls from people who thought the games should not have been played.

Two players on the Philadelphia Eagles fought each other into the hospital in a dispute over whether the game with the Washington Redskins should go on. Coach Nick Skorich suspended the participants, Ben Scotti and John Mellekas.

The cancellation pattern was spotty, and seemed largely a matter of individual taste.

Harvard, the late President's alma mater, and Yale moved promptly to postpone their Saturday game for one week. Dozens of other schools followed suit.

Only 34 major and minor college football games were played Friday night and Saturday, 21 in the South, six in the Southwest, five in the Midwest and two in the Far West.

All Eastern games were postponed, as were those in the Big Ten and the Far West Big Six.

Most of the games were rescheduled for later dates, although a few were canceled.

Most race tracks stopped their programs Friday when news of the assassination came, and stayed dark Saturday. Only Pimlico ran a program Saturday.

All racing will be shut down today, and some tracks will not resume until Wednesday.

The third round of the Cajun golf tournament at Lafayette, La., Saturday was postponed. Two rounds were played Sunday. The winner, Rex Baxter Jr., said, "We played unnoticed today."

Most professional basketball and some professional hockey games were postponed.

Tigers Boost Night Schedule

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Tigers will attempt to lure more paying customers through the turnstiles next year by playing more night games.

The 1964 schedule, announced by Vice President General Manager James Campbell Saturday, includes 30 night games and 12 doubleheaders.

The 30 night contests are six more than the Tigers have ever played in one season since the lights were installed in 1948. The twin-bills are three more than the team scheduled last season.

The Tigers will be home on two holidays, Memorial Day and the Fourth of July, with Chicago and Washington providing the opposition. Each holiday series will consist of a Friday night game, a Saturday contest and a Sunday doubleheader.

Detroit opens the season against Kansas City at Tiger Stadium April 14.

Tennis Star Suffers Loss

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) —The United States will send its big Davis Cup 1-2 punch—Chuck McKinley and Dennis Ralston—into the Victorian Tennis Championships starting Thursday at the Kooyong Club.

McKinley is returning to action after being sidelined by a recurring back ailment which struck him recently in the New South Wales Tournament at Sydney.

Ralston, 20, from Bakersfield, Calif., won the New South Wales tourney and went to the finals of the South Australian Championships before losing to John Newcombe, 19-year-old Australian junior titleholder.

Ralston, who said he was saddened by the death of President Kennedy, merely went through the motions in the final match, losing 6-1, 6-3, 15-17, 6-1. It was his first singles defeat in Australia.

"I couldn't help thinking about the assassination all the time I was on the court," he said. Then he added: "John played terrific tennis—he probably would have beaten me, anyhow."

The American ace was reluctant to play but did so when he was told by William Battle, U.S. ambassador to Australia, that the late President Kennedy would have wished him to do so.

Nixon May Get Second Chance

By JACK BELL
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The possibility that Republicans may give former Vice President Richard M. Nixon a second crack at the presidency appeared to be growing today.

The assassination of John F. Kennedy and the ascension of Lyndon B. Johnson to the office has forced a radical reassessment by GOP strategists of the 1964 campaign.

Where once they conceded privately they had only an uphill chance of defeating Kennedy's bid for a second term, they now fell the odds are nearly even they may be able to deny Johnson a first elective term.

For a race with Kennedy, many wanted to gamble of the theory that a conservative like Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., could defeat a Democratic liberal.

Now the Republican candidate is likely to face a Democrat identified in the public mind as a Southern conservative. For this is how Johnson is viewed by many, despite the support he has given as vice president to the Kennedy legislative program and his efforts to shed the tage of sectionalism.

Nevertheless, the Republicans perceive a broad avenue leading toward the nomination of a man who can try to out-Johnson Johnson in being for positive action on civil rights and for prudent social welfare programs without having to bear the party umbrage of being a "me-too" candidate.

The Republican who ordinarily would fit this description is Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York. But to get his party's nomination, Rockefeller will have to overcome the political liability of divorcing his wife of 35 years and marrying a divorced mother of four children.

If Rockefeller cannot surmount this political barrier—and many liberal Republicans are indicating by searching frantically elsewhere for a champion that they think he cannot—Nixon may prove to be their only refuge.

Sports In Brief

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Red Wings defenseman Pete Goegan has been waived to the club's Pittsburgh farm club. Goegan had been replaced on the roster last week by Ian Cushenan, up from Pittsburgh.

CLEVELAND (AP) — — Six Michigan skaters are among 28 candidates for the U.S. Olumpic figure skating team. Named by the U.S. Figure Skating Association were Gary Visconti, Tim Wood and Myrna Bodek of Detroit, Joanne Heckert and Gary Clark of East Lansing and Peter Kollen of Ann Arbor.

Baxter Wins Cajun Classic

LAFAYETTE, La. (AP)—Rex Baxter Jr. compiled a brilliant record as an amateur, but in pro golf ranks he was frustrated until Sunday.

One of Baxter's biggest problems has been bad finishes but Sunday he fashioned back-to-back 68s to win the $20,000 Cajun Classic.

The victory in the marathon 36-hole windup broke the ice for Baxter, whose best previous finish was second in the Waco Turner Tourney in 1961.

He had rounds of 68-71-68-68—275 over the 6-555-yard Oakburne Country Club layout.

Young Jack Rule Jr., the former University of Iowa swinger, who had had a two-stroke margin after the first 18 holes, had to settle for a tie for third place with Tommy Aaron at 278 as Bob Shave Jr. moved into second at 277 two strokes behind Baxter.

Gladstone Clerk Feared Drowned In Hunt Mishap

Search was resumed early this morning for Paul Louis, 54, of 1406 Minnesota Ave., Gladstone, believed drowned last Friday evening while crossing Forsythe Lake to his cabin for a weekend of hunting.

According to State Police of Gladstone, Louis, who is Gladstone city clerk, left the west shore of Forsythe Lake in his outboard motorboat for his camp, located on the east side of the lake.

Officers said they were told that hunting companions of Louis's drove to the west shore about 3 a. m., Saturday and sounded their horn for him to come across the lake and pick them up. When Louis failed to show up the trio got another boat and made their way across the lake, in strong winds and snow, to the cabin.

Doug Madden of 621 Minnesota Ave., one of the hunters, said that when they arrived at the cabin they failed to find Louis. The other hunters were Vernon Long of 1224 Superior Ave., and Charles Elegreet of 1516 Wisconsin Ave., both of Gladstone.

Later in the morning the men began a search for Louis and at the south end of the lake found his boat, ice-covered, bobbing against the shore. His rifle and flashlight were still in the boat.

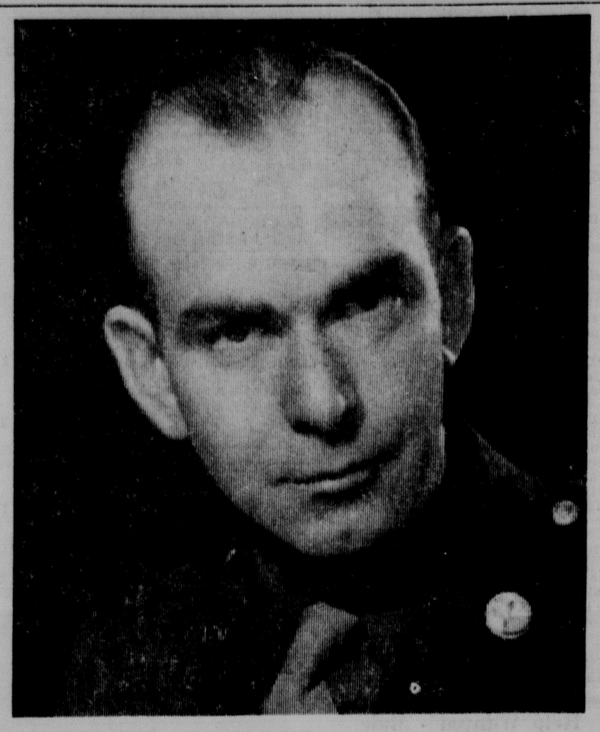

Police said that the motor on the boat was in a "start" position and they theorized that Louis apparently was attempting to get underway when he fell from the boat. He was dressed in heavy hunting clothes.

Skin divers from State Police posts at Marquette and Manistique were called in Saturday and spent two days searching the bottom of Forsythe Lake for Louis, but failed to find anything. Members of the Delta County Sheriff's Department conducted dragging operations, which up to the present time had also proven fruitless.

Early this morning State Police, sheriff's officers, and Gladstone city employes began the third day of the search.

State Police said skindivers had covered the north end of the lake and the area opposite the shoreline at Louis' cabin. They said the divers would not be used in today's search.

Sheriff's officers said dragging operations are difficult because of the heavily weeded bottom. Forsythe Lake is about 15 miles northeast of Rapid River.

died in an emergency room at Dallas' Parklawn Hospital, not 10 feet from where Kennedy had died Friday.

Oswald breathed his last shortly after the late President's body was carried by nine servicemen into the Capitol.

But for President Johnson, the case was not closed. He ordered the FBI to make an investigation into Oswald's killing in the Dallas jail basement by a self-appointed executioner, Jack Ruby, the operator of a Dallas strip joint.

As Oswald slumped to the floor clawing at his stomach one of the 200 jamming into the basement shouted: "It's too good for him."

Justice Gives Eulogy

Not long after Oswald died hundreds of miles away, Mrs. Kennedy, her eyes shadowed by fatigue and grief, stood with daughter Caroline before the flag-drapped casket in the Capitol and heard Chief Justice Earl Warren speak these words in eulogy to the late President:

"If we really love this country; if we truly love justice and mercy; if we fervently want to make this nation better for those who are to follow us, we can at least abjure the hatred that consumes people, the false accusations that divide us and the bitterness that begets violence.

"Is it too much to hope that the martyrdom of our beloved President might even soften the hearts of those who would themselves recoil from assassination, but who do not shrink from spreading the venom which kindles thoughts of it in others?"

The other eulogies were delivered by the late President's congressional leaders, Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield and House Speaker John W. McCormack, the tall white-haired Bostonian who had watched the Harvard-educated millionaire's son move swiftly up from House to Senate to White House.

"We must thank God," said McCormack, "that we were privileged, however briefly, to have had this great man for president."

John Jr. had also accompanied his mother and sister to the services, but too young to understand, figited and finally had to be led away. His third birthday is today.

And then at the end, Mrs. Kennedy walked up to the closed coffin with little Caroline beside her. She knelt and kissed it.

Later in the night and alone except for Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, she returned and passing through the long lines of those who came to pay their respect, she once again knelt and kissed her husband's casket.

People Observe Day Of Mourning For President

Soberly and with heavy hearts people of the Escanaba area went about their appointed tasks today — the day of mourning for the late President John F. Kennedy.

Church bells tolled, their sound muffled below an overcast and threatening sky. Memorial services were held in many churches.

State and federal offices, including the Post Office, closed for the day; the City hall closed at 11 a.m. and city employes were dismissed for the day.

Escanaba Chamber of Commerce President John Anthony and the directors called upon stores of the community to close for the morning hours and to open at 2 p.m.

All banks were closed until 2 this afternoon and then suspended business for the day at 4.30.

Streets were largely deserted except in the area of churches. The business district was without the auto or pedestrian traffic usual on a busy Monday morning.

When people met there was but one topic of conversation, and that was conducted in lowered tones and with heavy hearts. The assassination of the president, the slaying of his accused killer, mingled horror and shock in almost unbearable burden.

Except for church services there was little of the usual Sunday activity in the area. For most people it was a day of grief and mourning and of watching and listening as the dramatic and doleful events of the day unfolded.

Central Methodist Church today was open for those who entered for meditation; First Methodist Church took recognition of the tragic death of the President in special features of the service held on Sunday.

Other Protestant churches had special prayer services today after observance in their regular services on Sunday.

The Rev. Walfred Nelson, pastor of Bethany Lutheran Church and president of the Delta County Ministerial Association, said that all three Lutheran Church, Bethany, Christ the King and Immanuel held memorial prayer services at 10 a.m. today.

First Presbyterian Church, after memorial rites Sunday, kept the church open today for individual prayers and tolled its bells at noon.

St. Stephen's Episcopal Church had a service at 10 a.m. at which parts of the burial office were read, requiem celebrated and Holy Communion distributed.

Catholic churches of the Delta County Deanery had memorial rites on Sunday, and special Masses today, at which the school children helped swell attendance to overflow proportions. The memorial requiem Mass schedule today in the Catholic churches follows:

St. Joseph's 8 a.m.; St. Anthony's 10 a.m.; St. Patrick's 11 a.m.; St. Anne's 6 p.m. and St. Thomas the Apostle 7:30 p.m. Holy Family Church, Flat Rock will have a memorial Mass on Thanksgiving Day at 8:30 a.m.

Woman Is Hurt When Car Strikes Unlighted Truck

Mrs. Wallace Dahl, 33, of Escanaba Rte. 1, suffered severe injuries and was pinned for about 15 minutes in the wreckage when the car she was driving struck the rear of a large truck parked in the 2200 block of S. 23rd St. on Sunday evening.

She is reported in fair condition at St. Francis Hospital today. She suffered shock, facial cuts and bruises and a cut on the knee.

Escanaba police said that Mrs. Dahl's car ran into the rear of the parked truck, and the front wedged under the truck body. Mrs. Dahl was trapped in the car about 15 minutes until the car could be hauled back and her release effected.

The truck has been driven by Floyd C. Starr, 35, of Dallas, Texas, a driver for Northern Cedarcraft Co., which has a branch at Gladstone. The truck was enroute south from Escanaba when the fan belt broke and Starr halted on the pavement.

Mrs. Dahl's car struck the truck at 6:10 p. m. Sunday. Police said the truck was parked without flares or warning lights. Starr was summoned to court for parking in a restricted zone.

better highways save lives Traffic last Labor Day weekend broke all records—yet there was not a single fatality on Michigan's entire freeway system!

Modern highways are already reducing accidents by as much as 75% when compared with the outmoded roads they replace. It is a well-proved fact: Safety-engineered, easy-to-travel roads save lives. No better way has been found to cut accidents.

Yet today, nearly 50% of Michigan's roads and streets are still inadequate! This is no time to stop or curtail the state's great life-saving highway improvement program. The most effective way to further reduce Michigan's traffic toll is to improve these unsafe roads.

Also contributing to improved highway safety are today's modern concrete pavements. Wet or dry, concrete provides dependable skid resistance. Concrete's light color improves night visibility.

As an investment, too, concrete is first choice. Its long life and ability to take the heaviest traffic save taxes for every motorist.

CADILLAC (AP) — Workers at the Cadillac Mealleable Iron Co. returned to their jobs today with settlement of their four-week strike.

PUBLIC BUILDINGS in Escanaba and throughout the nation were closed today as the nation mourned the late President John F. Kennedy, assassinated on Friday in Dallas, Texas. Signs like this one on the door of the Carnegie Public Library in Escanaba were commonplace on public buildings today. The sign says: "Notice: In memory of our late President John F. Kennedy, all City facilities are closed today, Monday, Nov. 25, 1963." (Daily Press Photo)

Woman Is Hurt When Car Strikes Unlighted Truck

Mrs. Wallace Dahl, 33, of Escanaba Rte. 1, suffered severe injuries and was pinned for about 15 minutes in the wreckage when the car she was driving struck the rear of a large truck parked in the 2200 block of S. 23rd St. on Sunday evening.

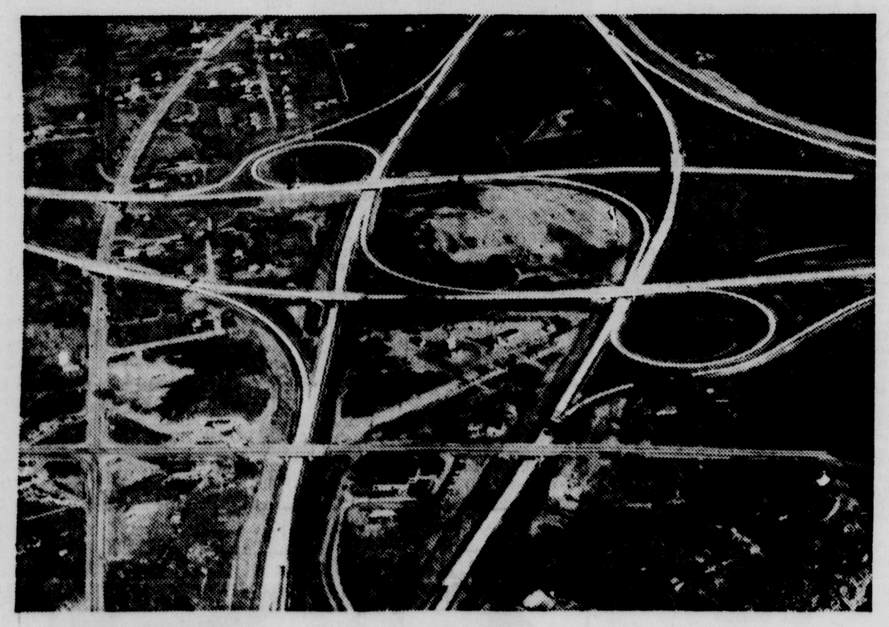

She is reported in fair condition at St. Francis Hospital today. She suffered shock, facial cuts and bruises and a cut on the knee.

Escanaba police said that Mrs. Dahl's car ran into the rear of the parked truck, and the front wedged under the truck body. Mrs. Dahl was trapped in the car about 15 minutes until the car could be hauled back and her release effected.

The truck has been driven by Floyd C. Starr, 35, of Dallas, Texas, a driver for Northern Cedarcraft Co., which has a branch at Gladstone. The truck was enroute south from Escanaba when the fan belt broke and Starr halted on the pavement.

Mrs. Dahl's car struck the truck at 6:10 p. m. Sunday. Police said the truck was parked without flares or warning lights. Starr was summoned to court for parking in a restricted zone.

The Escanaba Daily Press has expanded its circulation to the Newberry area. This means 200 more subscribers with more to come. This is valuable additional coverage to Press advertisers.

better highways save lives Traffic last Labor Day weekend broke all records—yet there was not a single fatality on Michigan's entire freeway system!

Modern highways are already reducing accidents by as much as 75% when compared with the outmoded roads they replace. It is a well-proved fact: Safety-engineered, easy-to-travel roads save lives. No better way has been found to cut accidents.

Yet today, nearly 50% of Michigan's roads and streets are still inadequate! This is no time to stop or curtail the state's great life-saving highway improvement program. The most effective way to further reduce Michigan's traffic toll is to improve these unsafe roads.

Also contributing to improved highway safety are today's modern concrete pavements. Wet or dry, concrete provides dependable skid resistance. Concrete's light color improves night visibility.

As an investment, too, concrete is first choice. Its long life and ability to take the heaviest traffic save taxes for every motorist.
